MORE LEVEES GIVE WAY AS RAINS SWELL MISSISSIPPI

Continental Downpours Occur in Arkansas and Tennessee and More Rain Is Forecast.

TEXAS IS ADDED TO FLOODED AREA

St. Louis the Stage of 34.9 Feet Is Virtually Equal That of the Floods of 1908 and 1909.

The greatest and most damaging flood in history of the lower Mississippi River is surging through a 1500-mile valley, from Missouri to the Gulf, and nobody knows where it will strike next. It is threatening through more levees every day and, as it spreads, death, disease and pestilence are spreading.

A week ago today it became apparent that something worse than the ordinary April rise in the Mississippi was occurring, and within hours it developed that damage and suffering would be widespread. This week the situation became more serious, and yesterday the realization of torrential rains pouring in the vast watershed behind it was even worse is yet to come.

Tributaries of the Mississippi continue in serious flood also, as the lesser streams that feed into the main river are being swelled by rain. In the last 24 hours rain has fallen south of the Missouri and Ohio rivers, being particularly heavy in Arkansas, Western Tennessee, and Northeastern Texas. Rain is forecast in the flood area south of Cairo, Ill., where rising skies and chilly temperatures threaten additional hardships for the 50,000 or more homeless and the army of men working the levees to hold the waters back. Freezing but dry weather for hours is predicted north of there.

Six More Deaths. Six more deaths resulting from the flood were reported in the vicinity of Little Rock, Ark., yesterday, bringing the total levee-over victims to 2900. The exact number has not been determined. Surviving victims are suffering from starvation, death, pestilence and disease are the Red Cross and other relief agencies. Against the tremendous and growing power of the swollen Mississippi the fight with handbags and earth becomes increasingly difficult.

Levee breaks in New Madrid, Mo., which have submerged the county seat, New Madrid, and driven most of its population away, are now being repaired. The flood to spread westward, predicted, to unite with the swollen St. Francis River. The tip of the flood is now being converted into an artificial lake, accessible only by boat, as roads and highways are submerged and telephone and telegraph lines threatened with destruction.

Arkansas is hard hit by the flood, since the St. Francis River, which flows into the Mississippi, is inundating a wide territory. The companies of the 140th Infantry, National Guard of Missouri, are ordered on active flood duty, patrolling levees and performing other functions. In Southern Missouri, particularly in New Madrid, Mississippi and Pemiscot counties, slowly and steadily being converted into an artificial lake, accessible only by boat, as roads and highways are submerged and telephone and telegraph lines threatened with destruction.

The State Board of Health has ordered headquarters for sanitation work in Southwestern Missouri at St. Louis, under the leadership of Dr. L. R. Russell. A team of 100 men, under Lieutenant Ralph E. Truman of St. Louis, who has established headquarters at St. Louis, is being sent there.

WIDOW SHOT IN FEUD BY NEIGHBOR WOMAN

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, 59, Critically Wounded by Mrs. Victoria Iancola, 26.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, 59 years old, a widow, residing at 1644A Texas avenue, was shot in the back and critically wounded at noon today by her downstairs neighbor, Mrs. Victoria Iancola, 26, as the culmination of a feud of seven years' standing between them.

After the shooting Mrs. Iancola escaped and is being sought by detectives. She is the mother of a 5-year-old girl. Mrs. Miller has two grown sons.

The wounded woman, who has a bullet wound in the back, told her younger son, Thomas, 19, at City Hospital, that Mrs. Iancola had fired upon her without warning as she stepped from a garage in the yard behind the flat building. She had no words with Mrs. Iancola today, she said, and did not know what had provoked her neighbor.

Mrs. Miller related that she had gone to the garage to get some clothes and to hang out a washing in the back yard. She said she heard two shots and saw Mrs. Iancola standing near the rear door of the Iancola flat.

BANKER SURRENDERS ON EMBEZZLEMENT INDICTMENT

E. J. Lovel of Zeigler, Ill., in Jail in East St. Louis to Answer $16,000 Shortage Charge.

Elmer J. Lovel, former president of the First National Bank at Zeigler, Franklin County, Illinois, surrendered today at the office of United States District Attorney Baker in East St. Louis under an indictment charging embezzlement of $16,707 of the bank's funds between September, 1924, and May, 1926.

Lovel was relieved of the presidency of the bank last July and was arrested Nov. 13, last, and placed under $20,000 bond. However, when the indictment was returned at Danville in March, he could not be found, and he was declared a fugitive from justice.

On his surrender today, he was lodged in jail at East St. Louis. According to District Attorney Baker, Lovel made a signed confession before his indictment.

Lovel, who is 29 years old, was president of the bank at a salary of $175 a month in January, 1926, after serving it six years as cashier. His defalcations extended over five months and consisted mostly of collections of money and notes which were not entered on the bank's records. He told authorities he spent the money living beyond his means.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO FRUIT CROPS

PORTLAND, Ore., April 21.—Farmers of the Pacific Northwest today kept their orchard smudge pots in shape to combat temperatures such as today's heavy damage to their crops yesterday. At Hood River, Ore., it was reported that virtually all cherries were destroyed by a heavy frost. There also were reports of severe damage to pears, prunes and other parts of the State, where the temperatures dropped to 20 degrees.

Washington and Idaho suffered likewise. Orchardists in Washington, running out of fuel for their smudge pots just before dawn, when the mercury stood at 15 degrees, were unable to replenish their supply before the cold had done its work. Estimates were that two-thirds to one-half of the prune crop was destroyed, and the Jonathan apples a total loss.

like his methods or anything about him."

Other affidavits allege that while Mrs. Hoffman represented in the preliminary examination that her husband, William Hoffman, was engaged only in the plumbing and heating business, his principal business was operating a "blind pig."

Hoffman, according to the affidavit of Frank R. Gervais, a Ford investigator, said last April 19 he knew about an offer of $10,000 to his wife by "Kid" Miller, and that he had told her it she could get that amount she could get $10,000 just as easily. Miller was said to have been on friendly terms with Sapiro.

Sapiro Seen With Miller.

Several of the affidavits referred to Miller's association with Mrs. Hoffman in the Federal Building, corridors off the courtroom and two of them said Sapiro and Miller had locked arms and conversed intimately and earnestly in the corridors.

John Smolar, a Ford detective, swore that he had heard "a man of Jewish cast of countenance, since identified to him as Miller," say to Mrs. Hoffman: "It will be worth thousands of dollars to you if you will do so."

One of the affidavits supporting the mistrial motion quoted Hoffman as having said to a Ford detective: "What if we say it is a real estate deal, or mortgage?" when talking about Miller's conversation with his wife in the Federal building.

Two Ford detectives made affidavit that they had purchased beer and whiskey from Hoffman.

A clipping of an interview with Mrs. Hoffman which appeared in the Detroit newspapers Tuesday after Ford counsel had served formal notice of their intention to move for a mistrial was appended to the affidavit of J. C. Bruce, Ford attorney. In the interview Mrs. Hoffman defended herself at length against the charges of misconduct.

Peter William Fuchs, Twice Married and Divorced, Says He Still Loves Mrs.
Carrie L. Wythe.

BUT SHE DEMANDS HER PROPERTY BACK

Alleges He Deceived Her—Testimony Ends and Judge Takes Her Suit
Under Advisement.

Circuit Judge Hartmann in a few days will decide whether Peter William Fuchs, 37 years old, twice married and divorced, loved Mrs. Carrie L. Wythe, 47, a widow, for himself alone or for her property.

What is more to the point, whether he would return the property to her.

Testimony ended last yesterday when Mrs. Wythe's suit to recover $30,000 worth of real estate which she transferred to Fuchs a year ago, she alleged he obtained the property by misrepresentations that he would transfer securities of equal value to her. She denies she ever engaged to marry him.

Fuchs contends she gave him the property in consideration of his love, affections, chores, services as chauffeur, and ambition to become a grocer. He never became a grocer, but that was not his fault, he is quite certain that she promised to marry him and that she jilted him in California.

California, it appeared from his testimony, is his final spot. It was there that he met his first wife, by divorcing her. He lost his second wife, by the same process, in Colorado, but California outdid Colorado by jailing him for six weeks on his plea of petty larceny.

Told of Trip to California.

He said Mrs. Wythe drove to California in 11 days, starting from St. Louis last May 28. They were chartered by her 10-year-old daughter, Wilma. He has a daughter about the same age, but she was sleeping.

They reached Kansas City without a quarrel, but soon she was complaining that the expenses were running too high. He was having the gasoline tank filled too often. He was having entirely too many structures.

"Yes, she was cross with me," he recalled, sadly. "I didn't say anything, though. I didn't fuss back and that made her all the more furious. I don't believe in quarreling with a lady."

At Denver, Mrs. Wythe locked the car, suspecting that he was trying to get away with her. He was the worst was to come.

"When we reached Los Angeles she refused to marry me. She said she was through with me. He said she had made a mistake, and if she married anybody it would be somebody with a trade."

They stopped speaking to each other then. But Fuchs wrote her a note, an ultimatum, to the effect that he was going back to St. Louis unless she married him at once.

"It was getting on my nerves," he testified. "I couldn't stand the note. I wasn't very well at all the time because of all the excitement. I waited a few days and when I still got an answer I bought a round ticket and came back to St. Louis."

Willing to Forgive and Wed.

Heart-broken, but willing to forgive and marry, Fuchs is living with his mother at 215 West Ashmun street. Mrs. Wythe lives at 3415 South Compton avenue.

"You love her so much you would marry her today to keep her property?" Mrs. Wythe's lawyer suggested.

"I love her," said Fuchs, "but not for her property."

BODIES FOUND IN MEXICAN TRAIN

The fight continued among the passengers. The rebels, he says, mistook the soldiers and passengers were mistaken for soldiers.

Given Different Version.

Dono Nedo, former Governor of Mexico, during the Porfirio Diaz regime, who traveled in a Pullman with his wife and children, told a different story. The rebels, he said, did not rob or molest the passengers, but courteously assisted them to carry their baggage to the cars. The casualties, in his opinion, were due to the desperate resistance offered by the military and its "imprudence" in attacking inside the coaches.

Called "Catholic Rebels."

A statement issued from the presidential office charged "Catholic rebels" with responsibility for the attack, asserting that three Catholic priests were among the leaders. That Secretary of War Venustiano Carranza had ordered "the required measures for an energetic pursuit of the priests who received their instructions from the episcopate of Mexico City."

Without warning the train stopped in a lonely region, and a group of outlaws, or rebels, estimated at 500 to 1000, quickly disposed of the military guard and poured oil and gasoline on the coaches as the passengers looked on helplessly. Soon the coaches were a mass of flames. As the terrified passengers tried to scramble through the windows to the ground, they were shot.

Obregon's Daughter a Victim.

Late information was that about half the passengers escaped, among them E. S. de Lima, vice president of the Banco de Mexico and director of the National Railways, and Eduardo Mestre, president of the Institution of Public Charity in Mexico City.

Advices to the presidential office gave the name of Coquita de Leon, daughter of former President Obregon and the wife of an army officer, as among the dead or injured.

Survivors of the tragedy today packed to Mexico City the information that from five to seven Americans were on the train, but that none of them was injured.

Tracks between the stations of Limon and Feliciano were torn up. When the train reached the break in the rails the engine overturned, but the coaches remained standing on the tracks. Passengers who descended to learn what had happened were forced back at rifle points.

Then the attacking party began pouring oil, after locking the doors of the coaches. One report received at the railroad offices was that a passenger became insane when his wife and five children were burned in a second-class coach. The man crawled out of a window, thinking his family was behind him. He attempted to lead them to them, when he heard their screams, but the flames prevented.

"As the only comment on this painful happening," the statement from the presidential office said, "we desire to call the attention of the people of this country who have common sense, and especially of the poor classes, to which the passengers who were barbarously burned alive by this church crowd belonged to the low moral level of those who desire to constitute themselves into spiritual directors of our country and seize power. This is not to be considered strange because it is merely an exact repetition of proceedings which the Catholic church has always used from the time of the inquisition to the present time."

Official Report on Attack.

Gen. Jaime Carrillo, Chief of Staff of the War Minister, in a report to the President, said that the bandits, headed by the priests Vega, Pedrosa and Angulo, and a lawyer named Loza, a commissioner of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty, with a handful of men, had always used from the time of the inquisition to the present time.

The military escort of the train fought valiantly and heroically for more than three hours and a half, until the last soldier was killed," the statement continued. "Then the church bandits entered the coaches, which were full of passengers, and some bandits with knives and others with revolvers attacked the defenseless passengers, especially butchering those traveling in the second-class coaches. Not content with leaving behind a great number of wounded and dead inside the cars, they set the train afire without heeding the cries of agony of those still alive."

"I am witness that upon our arrival the cries of wounded passengers being burned alive were still to be heard within the cars, and although we made efforts to rescue them, it was impossible because all the cars were a raging furnace."

There was some speculation today as to whether the Government might arrest the members of the episcopate and other Catholic leaders in view of the statement from the presidential office that the attacking party received its instructions from the episcopate.

SEEKS SECRET FACTS IN KILLING OF ACTOR

Coroner Promises Further Details at Raymond Inquest—Kelly Accused of Murder.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 21.—Additional details bearing on the death of Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, following a fist fight with Paul Kelly, screen juvenile, who is under indictment for murder, are promised at today's inquest into the tragedy. Coroner Nance plans to investigate an alleged plot to "cover up" facts in the case.

The belief that a concerted attempt has been made to suppress facts immediately after Raymond's death was expressed by the coroner when he announced that this phase of the case would be thoroughly sifted today.

A murder indictment was returned against Kelly following a grand jury investigation of the actor's death. The bill was returned a few minutes after Raymond's widow, Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress, had finished her testimony.

Miss Mackaye, who has admitted that her friendship for Kelly was the cause of the trouble between the screen player and her husband, collapsed in the witness chair. As she was being assisted out of the grand jury room she learned of the jury's action.

For three hours Miss Mackaye was questioned in the grand jury room. Her recital was frequently interrupted as the actress became hysterical. Her testimony was said to have reached its climax when she admitted that she was with Kelly in his apartment when he called her husband on the telephone last Saturday night.

Kelly hung up the receiver and dashed over to the Raymond home, where an argument between the two men led to the fight.

Miss Mackaye was quoted as saying she had gone to Kelly's apartment with a companion, Miss Helen Wilkinson, in the afternoon, and that she remained there while the fight was taking place. In a previous statement to police she said she had left her home Saturday night to buy Easter eggs for her 4-year-old daughter and that she visited a dressmaker.

TWO POLICEMEN LOSE JOBS FOR DRINKING

Another Demoted for Living in Ferguson—Hearings Before Commissioners.

Somebody wrote to the Chief of Police that policemen were loafing at a saloon at 329½ De Baliviere avenue, so Police Inspector Walton drove out there, looked the bartender in the eye and said with a lot of meaning:

"Give me a glass of 'homespun.'"

The bartender looked doubtfully at Walton, who was not in uniform, and appealed to three men standing at the bar, one of them in uniform.

"Do you know this man?" inquired the bartender.

Three heads shook negatively.

"Sorry, but haven't got any," the bartender told Walton.

Having no confidence in the truthfulness of bartenders, Inspector Walton searched the place and seized some beer, or "homespun," as the police call it.

Inspector Walton told this to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday, and the policeman, Patrolman Orion Allen, was dismissed on charges of neglect of duty and unbecoming conduct. He protested that he did not know beer was on the premises, and did not hear Walton's request for "homespun."

Walton had seen another uniformed policeman and two detectives leave the place before he found the beer.

"How is it the police hang out here?" he asked.

"I can't keep 'em out," answered the bartender.

Three policemen went there at 10:45 o'clock last night and reported they saw Gordon Harris, the man in charge, mixing a whiskey highball for a customer. They seized the highball as evidence and arrested Harris.

Sgt. Julius David was dismissed on testimony that he had a bottle of beer in his hand and dropped it with a surprised "Oh!" when he was found seated in a parlor of the Washington Hotel, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard. He had his hat and coat off. He insisted he had not touched the bottle, that it was several feet away, and, besides, he didn't know what it contained. Patrolman Chris Krey, his companion at the time, was demoted to probationary rank.

Sgt. Joseph T. Logan, a policeman for 30 years and 30 days, as he proudly recalled—was demoted to patrolman, on charges of living outside the city limits and leaving the city without permission of his superiors. He testified he roomed with a niece at 5844 Enright avenue, but frequently left the city overnight to visit his wife, who is seriously ill at Ferguson. He bought the Ferguson home for her in September, 1925, when her physician suggested she move to the county.

Patrolman Henry Urspruch was demoted to probationary rank and Patrolman Patrick Egan was reduced to prison guard, for drinking. Patrolman Walter Holmes was fined $25 for enjoying a recreation day at a time when recreation days were suspended.

$3,851,000 in Fees Asked For by Gould Attorneys

Trustees' Counsel Trims This to $2,500,000—Most Expensive Litigation Said to Have Cost $41 a Minute.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The 11-year-old litigation among the heirs of Jay Gould, who left $84,000,000, was established as the most expensive personal legal action in the history of the world yesterday when the amount of fees demanded by attorneys for the various beneficiaries became known. Thirty-five lawyers and law firms submitted to Referee O'Gorman a schedule of fees totaling $3,851,000. The estate already has shrunk to $50,000,000.

In another schedule submitted to O'Gorman last Saturday attorneys for the trustees recommended that only $2,500,000 be paid, and O'Gorman is expected to approve this recommendation. This, however, does not represent the total legal cost to the litigants because the fees of attorneys for Howard Gould and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard are not included.

Nor does it include fees of $17,682 which attorneys for the trustees have asked for.

"After careful deliberation," said counsel for the corporate trustees, "we have come to the conclusion that the aggregate amount to be paid to counsel out of the principal of the six trusts should be an amount approximately equal to 10 per cent of the recoupment of principal and that payments in an equal amount be made out of the income of the six trusts."

The "recoupment" referred to is $20,000,000 paid back to the estate by Jay Gould's four children—the late George J., Edwin and Howard Gould and Mrs. Shepard—who were held responsible for the estate's shrinking by that amount.

Expenses of litigation, estimated at $41 a minute, might have been much greater had not the more than 50 heirs, in the interests of the family harmony, reached an agreement last December.

DISCHARGED CONVICT GIVEN NEW SENTENCE OF 2 YEARS

Jack LaBrachet, 28 years old, World War veteran, who has a wife and two children here, pleaded guilty today of burglary, in Circuit Judge Feary's court, and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

He already has served three years and three months of a four-year sentence on another burglary charge. Circuit Attorney Sidener caused his arrest at the gate of the penitentiary in Jefferson City last January, so he could be arraigned on a second burglary charge.

The case in which LaBrachet pleaded guilty today involved the robbery of the home of Robert Lee Hedges, 320 North Union boulevard, Aug. 20, 1924, in which $6733 in jewelry was taken. The jewels were later recovered from LaBrachet as he was on his way to return them and claim a reward. American Legion members have interested themselves in LaBrachet's case and are helping his wife and children.

Frank Gordon, 47 years old, an insurance salesman of 354 Westminister place, was still protesting innocence today, although he had been identified, according to police, by six South St. Louis grocers and four oil station attendants as an armed man who visited them in recent weeks, tied them with cord and threatened them with death, and escaped with sums totaling about $200.

He was arrested early yesterday as he got out of a taxicab at Vandeventer avenue and Westminster place. He had a revolver, two lenses, a brooch and $69.85.

The grocers who were robbed are George Beals, John A. Catlett, Louis Kortnak, Fred Stika, Victor Burnett and Philip Elder. The oil station attendants are Arthur Bowles, James Seibin, John Spurlock and Hayden Leavell.

MRS. HALL, HE SAYS

Heinz Warneke Declares He and Divorced Wife of Business Man Will Marry.

Before leaving for New York today to embark for Europe, Heinz Warneke, young German sculptor, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he would be married this summer in Paris to Mrs. Jessie G. Hall, divorced wife of Edward T. Hall, vice president of the Ralston Purina Co., and former president of the St. Louis Advertising Club.

In New York, he said, he will see his fiancée, who is now living in Philadelphia. They will meet again in Paris after Warneke has completed a "tour."

Warneke came from Berlin four years ago and, after prospecting in St. Louis, decided to settle here. He has achieved international recognition with his work in bronzes, bronzes and wood carving, and two weeks ago returned from New York, where he directed two public exhibitions of his work. He has won prizes for sculpture and for the best work of art at St. Louis Artists' Guild exhibitions.

Warneke said he met Mrs. Hall about three years ago in St. Louis. She was divorced March 6 last by her husband, who alleged desertion on Feb. 10, 1926. The Halls had lived in St. Louis since their marriage in Philadelphia in 1911. Hall now lives at Berry and Algonquin roads, Glendale, with their four minor children.

Warneke said he would continue to make St. Louis his home, although he planned to spend much of his time abroad and in the East.

The new parochial school of the Mgr. Brennan Memorial, located on the memorial tract in Carondelet, is rapidly nearing completion. The tract contains 300 square feet and will be surrounded with a stone wall, from 10 to 12 feet high.

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Martin E. Brennan, now in his eighties, but still active in parish work, has his pastoral residence on the tract, which is also the site for the church of St. Mary and Joseph. It is planned to erect several other memorial buildings inside the enclosure. The tract was set aside 180 years ago for religious purposes and has been so used since.

RED CROSS RELIEF FUND IN ST. LOUIS REACHES $40,000

Large Contributions Make Up Bulk of Gifts Received Toward City's Quota of $200,000.

Like the flood itself, St. Louis contributions for the relief of Mississippi Valley flood sufferers rose rapidly today. At noon, the contributions received by the St. Louis Chapter, American Red Cross, since yesterday morning, amounted to nearly $40,000, and it was expected that the $50,000 mark would be passed before tonight.

The original mark set for St. Louis gifts, $200,000, is likely to be increased, as the latest reports show the need to be twice as great as indicated in earlier estimates. Fifty thousand refugees, double the number previously estimated, are in immediate need of food and shelter in the lengthening and widening flood region.

Banks Give $10,000.
Fourteen banks of the St. Louis Clearing House today agreed to underwrite a bankers' fund of $10,000, to be turned over to the Red Cross within the next 24 hours. This is the largest amount received in one contribution.

Forty-one persons and firms contributed yesterday, most of the gifts being large sums from business concerns. The total was $15,742. The contributions received in today's first mail by the Red Cross were 240 in number, and ranged from $1 to $1000 in amount, the total being $12,801. The bankers' $10,000 pledge, added to these sums, made $39,543 at noon today.

The varying sums and the addresses in today's list showed that the general public is taking an earnest interest in the flood sufferers, and a large volume of small gifts is expected. All checks and money should be sent to Festus J. Wade, treasurer of the St. Louis Red Cross Chapter at the Mercantile Trust Co.

Barge Line Aids Relief Work.
William M. Baxter Jr., in charge of midwestern division headquarters, declared today that the need was greater than at any time since the flood began. Requests for thousands of additional tents were received yesterday, and the United States Army is lending these tents, but transporting them to the places where they are needed is a difficult problem.

The Mississippi-Warrior barge service, under directions from the War Department, has placed all its available equipment at the disposal of the Red Cross for carrying tents and other supplies to points not reached by rail lines.

The number of homeless persons grows greater as the swollen river moved southward. Estimates sent to Red Cross headquarters in Washington place the number of homeless at 5000 in Kentucky and Tennessee, 12,000 in Mississippi and 30,000 in Louisiana. This does not take account of those in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

Some Refugee Camps Flooded.
Some of the refugee camps have been inundated by the spreading waters. This happened in Arkansas, between the White and Cache Rivers, following the breaking of a White River levee at Clarendon, Ark.

One of the most disastrous levee breaks reported was that in the White River levee at Clarendon, Ark., where 200 persons were driven from their homes. At Cotton Plant, Ark., the flood overtook flood refugees housed in box cars. Jonesboro, Ark., reports the arrival of 700 refugees.

Treasurer Wade issued an appeal last evening to St. Louisans to give liberally and promptly. He pointed out that the flood is one of the worst disasters ever experienced in the Mississippi Valley, and that the Red Cross is the one agency able to deal with the situation.

WALSH SEEKS TO KEEP ALUMINUM TRUST CASE ALIVE

Warns Attorney-General Statute of Limitations
May Eliminate It Next Month.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, has renewed his effort to secure action by the Department of Justice in the antitrust proceeding against the Aluminum Company of America, in which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and his brother, R. B. Mellon of Pittsburgh, are the principal stockholders.

In a letter to Attorney-General Sargent, the Montana Senator directed the attention of the Department of Justice to the fact that the Government's best case against the Mellon company will be automatically invalidated next month by statutory limitations, and requested information as to whether the Attorney-General contemplated court action in time to prevent the expiration of the litigation by default.

Although Senator Walsh's letter relates specifically to complaints before the Federal Trade Commission that the company used unfair methods in monopolizing the aluminum casting business, the communication reopens in the Department of Justice the entire pending case involving virtually every phase of the fight against the Mellon concern since the inception of the original antitrust suit by Attorney General Wickersham in 1912.

The report of the Federal Trade Commission, charged that the practice of the company in forcing purchasers of sheet aluminum to return their shop-scraps for remelting constituted a direct violation of the consent decree which terminated the 1912 action.

Senator Walsh declined to make public his letter nor would he indicate what course he meant to follow when the plans of the Government prosecutor were known. The Department of Justice officers were equally uncommunicative.

TAXI PASSENGER HOLDS UP DRUG STORE AND RIDES AWAY

Chauffeur Says He Didn't Suspect Man Who Got $45 in Delmar Boulevard.

A young man robbed the drug store at 5479 Delmar boulevard yesterday, hiring a taxicab to get there and using the machine to escape. The chauffeur, Chester Gligle, 2508 Montgomery street, whose number was traced, declared the robber gave him no cause to suspect and paid his fare with an average tip.

Gligle said he was in the taxi line at Hotel Statler when the man, well-dressed and about 25, came out of the hotel and signaled him. "Drive out Delmar," the passenger ordered. At the drug store of Zach V. Kerrigan, he ordered Gligle to stop. He went inside for a minute, then returned, ordering, "Washington Hotel." Gligle took him there, collected his fare and went on.

In the drug store the man had consumed a soft drink and held up the cashier, Miss Clara Bryan, and two clerks, taking $45 from the cash register.

A metal band marked "1924-323, 056A," is the only clue to the identity of a pigeon which has taken up residence with M. J. Fassel, a plumber, of 6208 South Kingshighway.

The bird, with the band fastened to one leg, flew in an open kitchen window yesterday. "Shooed" outside, it flew in again. (Once more it was put out, and once more it returned. Fassel is undecided whether it's a homing pigeon or a homeless one, but he's holding it for a claimant.)

MAN, 80, ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., April 21.—"Uncle Bela" Hughes, 80-year-old Confederate veteran, charged in bringing suit for divorce here yesterday that his 75-year-old wife "by her blandishments" induced him to marry her, but that "within one week after marriage began to demand money of him, and to call for a division with her of his property."

His third wife, he alleges, not only filled his life with "nagging," but also "undertook to reform him." The case will be tried in June.

ARKANSAS REFUGEES BESET WITH DISEASE

Isolation Camp to Be Established—Main Line Mo. Pac. Bridge Swept Away.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 21.—More than 500 of the St. Francis River refugees in camps at Wynne and Parkin, Ark., have fallen ill with measles, whooping cough and mumps. Advised of the situation by the Red Cross, Gov. Martineau yesterday ordered National Guard medical officers and State health authorities to establish an isolation camp.

Lack of communication with many points prevented confirmation of reports of loss of life in the flood. Many persons were reported marooned, many unaccounted for and many rescued from house tops, trees and other high places.

The Arkansas River here last night was the highest stage on record—22.4 feet. A virtual cloud-burst descended on Little Rock. Seven inches of rain fell during the day.

At Benton, 30 miles south, a rain flooded stores and other houses, swept out a railroad bridge and tore up sections of the Little Rock-Hot Springs highway.

The south half of the Missouri Pacific bridge across the Arkansas River here was swept away today, carrying with it trains of cars loaded with rock which had been run on it in an attempt to hold the structure down. The loss of this bridge cuts the railroad main line, but the road has another bridge about a mile downstream. The bridge that went out was the connecting link between the passenger and freight terminal in Little Rock and the road's shops and round-house in North Little Rock.

The part of the bridge destroyed included two piers, and the superstructure of the south approach, the first span and the draw span.

The steel structure had been swinging a few inches out of line down current for several days and traffic over it was closed yesterday morning.

The bridge, with pedestrian passageways and roadway, was built in 1871. Last year the road spent more than $40,000 in strengthening piers and other parts of the structure.

Six more lives have been added to the toll taken by Arkansas flood waters. Julius Lamb, 3 years old, was drowned when he fell off the front porch of his home near Truman into backwater. E. Rainwater, 24, was drowned near Morrilton. Three Negro convicts were drowned when six shifts, towed by a motor boat, turned over just as a levee went out near here last night. Nine Negroes are missing. They had been at work on the levee. A Negro also was drowned near Bradley.

Houses and Barges Swept Through Main Street of Clarendon, Ark.

STUTTGART, Ark., April 21.—How Clarendon, a thriving little town of 3000, was inundated was told by Prof. J. E. Howard, who arrived here from Clarendon last night.

"If the water reaches a predicted stage of 43 feet in the White River there will be no town left by tomorrow," he said. "The first we knew that the levee had broken was when four houses which stood between levee and the river, came hurrying through the levee and down the main street of the town."

"Barges moored outside the levees followed the houses, zig-zagging down the length of the street. Smaller houses were carried in the path of the water and danger was felt that the small houses crashing into the larger structures would soon smash the larger."

"The food situation there is bad. Merchants and other dealers were unable to move their wares to the upper floors before the crash came. The only water available for drinking was rain caught in cups or buckets held out of windows under the eaves."

Warning of Flood in Missouri River Issued at Columbia.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 21.—A flood warning was issued by the United States Weather Bureau here yesterday, advising all persons living in the river bottoms between Rocheport and Jefferson City, Mo., to move to higher ground, because of an expected further rise in the Missouri River.

Plane Takes 500 Pounds of Yeast to Little Rock.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—An airplane carrying 500 pounds of yeast took off here today for Little Rock, Ark., where the supply of bread and yeast has been exhausted because of the floods. S. R. Shore, pilot of the plane, expected to reach Little Rock in about four hours.

DENIES CLASH IN ROMANIA Spokesman for Soviet Says Report Is "Pure Invention."

MOSCOW, April 21.—A spokesman for the Soviet commissariat of war declared today there was no confirmation of a report through Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, of fighting between Russian and Rumanian frontier guards. The report, he added, appeared to have been inspired by the Rumanian press, which in the last several weeks had published similar stories.

He characterized as "pure inventions" other reports, saying trouble had arisen from a Ukrainian separatist movement, entailing the refusal of soviet military contingents to respond to a call for service.

MAROOINED IN NEW MADRID, MO.

Remaining 1900 of Citizens Have Fled as Water Covers Streets of City.

By the Post-Dispatch.

NEW MADRID, Mo., April 21.—About 100 persons, nearly all men, marooned in upper floors of houses in the New Madrid County courthouse and in a few other buildings here today, 1900 being put to flight by the inundation of the place through the Mississippi River levee. The hundreds of the refugees do not know how long they will remain here, for the U. S. Army, for relief of the city, is at Hickman, Ky., and Cairo, Ill.

Those who are remaining here are provided with motorboats. The 1900 residents, most of them men and children, had previously escaped by boat and by wagon. Some of them are at Sikeston, Charleston or Cape Girardeau.

The main business section is covered with seven feet of water. In some low places the depth is 15 feet.

Drinking water continues to be a premium and its lack is one of the worst hardships of those remaining in New Madrid.

Standing several feet above the level of the town and kept out by Government levees, the Mississippi River has been a cause of apprehension since it has been broken. There was a torrential rain yesterday, accompanied by a wind, driving the river into waves several feet high, which lashed the levee barrier. Rain continued this morning, with the temperature at 35 degrees.

During the night the river fell several inches. Hearing this, the four telephone operators, who were stuck to their marooned, second-floor switchboard night and day since Saturday, decided to come to their post. They had agreed to give up today and leave.

A Government dredge was sent today to dynamite several levees near New Madrid, in an effort to relieve the danger of water damage to the district. The trouble started last Saturday when a Government levee at Dorena, Mo., opposite Hickman, Ky., broke about 20 miles east of New Madrid, gave way and permitted vast quantities of water to flow to New Madrid County. That evening, measured yesterday by a Government engineer, was 1911 wide and growing at the rate of about 15 feet daily. The current is running from four to nine miles an hour.

Breaks followed on Tuesday in St. John's Bayou Levee, north of this town, when the rush of water from Dorena reached there, and the flood in moving westward toward the southeastern tip of Missouri, which is about to be made a temporary island. It has been to the vicinity of Catron, east 10 miles west of New Madrid, its progress weakened a Co. Belt Railway trestle over the river, and as a result one passenger train from the north was back yesterday at Lilbourn, Mo., where it has been placed on levees the vicinity of Parma, west of New Madrid, Lilbourn and Catron in Parma.

Efforts are being made to protect levees near Portageville and Marston, a few miles south of New Madrid, which are in danger of breaking. The movement of the flood in the direction of these towns and Parma is taking the water to the flooded St. Louis River at the western border of this tip of the State. A St. Louis publisher asserted his city was not menaced and that United States Highway 51 was south of there, although flooded to the north. The flood, it goes down the St. Francis, is expected to inundate 1,000,000 acres in Missouri and Arkansas, inhabitants of a score of towns, villages and many farmers are trying to get out of the way.

Buildings Washed Away. Lake, just across the border west of Blytheville, Ark., is in the path of the movement towards St. Francis. Pettyville, Ark., village adjoining the lake, is deluged today because the lake is rising. Three buildings have been washed away and water is 18 feet behind remaining store buildings.

Shelter and food for the expected influx of refugees is being stored in this unhappy section. Near Treon, Ark., 50 miles north of Memphis, Tenn., seems the point for the conjunction of flood from the New Madrid levee and the St. Francis. Levees are being strengthened in the vicinity of New Madrid and toward Helena, above the mouth of the St. Francis.

FORD MUCH IMPROVED. Sold in Case From Auto Injuries. However.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., April 21.—Ford has shown marked improvement the last few days in his recovery from injuries received in automobile accident the night of March 27, officers of the Ford Co. said today. The manufacturer has been allowed to sit in a cast. Although all has ceased, it is expected he will be allowed to walk for a few 10 days.

MAROOINED IN NEW MADRID, MO.

1900 of Citizens Fled as Water Covers Streets of City.

NEW MADRID, Mo., April 21.—
About 100 persons, nearly all men, marooned in upper part of houses in the New Madrid courthouse and in a large room here today, 1900 remain here today, 1900 been put to flight by the flood of the place through Mississippi River levees.
Hundreds of the refugees departed this morning on the U. S. boat Kankakee, for relief
at Hickman, Ky., and Cairo, Egypt.

Those who are remaining here provided with motorboats.
About 100 residents, most of them men and children, had previously escaped by boat and by train. Some of them are at Sikeston or Cape Girardeau.

The main business section is covered with seven feet of water. In low places the depth is 15 feet. The water continues to be a premium and its lack is one of the worst hardships of those remaining in New Madrid.

Several feet above the level of the town and kept out by government levees, the Mississippi river has been a cause of apprehension since it this levee broke and would be a deluge in the town. There was a torrential rain Saturday, accompanied by a wind driving the river into waves several feet high, which lashed the levee barrier. Rain continued throughout the night, with the temperature falling to 25 degrees.

During the night the river fell several inches. Hearing this, the four telephone operators, who were stuck to their marooned, second-floor switchboard night and day Saturday, decided to continue at their post. They had agreed to give up today and leave.

Government dredge was sent today to dynamite several levees near New Madrid, in an effort to relieve the danger of flood damage to the district.

Trouble started last Saturday
when a Government levee at Donora, Mo., opposite Hickman, Ky., about 20 miles east of New Madrid, gave way and permitted vast quantity of water to flow into New Madrid County. That evening, measured yesterday by a government engineer, was 2911 cubic feet and growing at the rate of about 15 feet daily. The current now runs from four to nine feet an hour.

Boats followed on Tuesday in R. John's Bayou Levee, north of town, when the rush of water from Donora reached there,
the flood in moving westward toward the southeastern tip of Missouri, which is about to be made a temporary island. It has now reached the vicinity of Catron, about 10 miles west of New Madrid. Its progress weakened a Cottontail Railway trestle over the river, and as a result one passenger train from the north was washed back yesterday at Lilbourn.
Control has been placed on levees in the vicinity of Parma, west of New Madrid. Some of the refugees from New Madrid, Lilbourn and Catron are in Parma.

Efforts are being made to protect levees near Portageville, a town, a few miles southwest of New Madrid, which are in danger of breaking. The movement of the flood in the direction of these towns and Parma is taking the water to the flooded St.
Louis River at the western border of this tip of the State. A Portageville publisher asserted his town was not menaced and that States Highway 61 was open south of there, although closed to the north. The flood, it goes down the St. Francis, is expected to inundate 1,000,000 acres in Missouri and Arkansas.

Remnants of a score of towns villages and many farmers are struggling to get out of the way.
Buildings Washed Away.

Lake, just across the border of Hylthville, Ark., is in south of the movement towards St. Francis. Pettysville, Ark., village adjoining the lake, is flooded today because the lake is rising. Three buildings have been washed away and water is 18 feet behind remaining store buildings.

Shelter and food for the excess influx of refugees is being provided by towns on higher ground in this unhappy section.
Near Treo, Ark., 50 miles northwest of Memphis, Tenn., seems the only point for the conjunction of flood from the New Madrid levee and the St. Francis.

Refugees are being strengthened in vicinity of New Madrid and towards Helena, above the mouth of the St. Francis.

FORD MUCH IMPROVED
Ford in Cast From Auto Injuries. However.

Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., April 21.—
Ford has shown marked improvement the last few days in his condition from injuries received in automobile accident the night of March 27, officers of the Ford trust said today. The manufacturer has been allowed to sit is in a cast. Although all hopes are not yet lost, it is expected he

CONFESSES MURDERING MAN

IN 1925 FOR LOVE OF WOMAN

Frank Van Sickle, held in New Jersey With Victim's Wife, Clears Up Old Crime.

NEWTON, N. J., April 21.—Frank Van Sickle today confessed to the killing of Edward Raser on Sept. 28, 1925, because he was "very much in love with Mrs. Raser," according to Sheriff Lanterman. Van Sickle and Mrs. Raser were arrested April 4 and charged with murder.

Robert Van Sickle, 70 years old, father of the slayer, last night advised his son to confess.

Van Sickle's statement said that he took a rifle, hid behind a tree near where Raser was piling wood and shot him.

A burial permit giving heart trouble as the cause of death was issued when Raser's body was found, 18 months ago. A year later the body was exhumed and a bullet wound found.

NEW MAYOR INAUGURATED

Frank Doyle Begins Duties as East St. Louis Executive.

The East St. Louis City Council room took on the appearance of a florist's shop yesterday afternoon when about 35 different floral pieces were arranged about the room as Frank Doyle, newly elected Mayor, and the four new City Commissioners were inaugurated. Miss Lillian Ash, City Clerk, presided, and brief addresses were made by Doyle and M. M. Stephens, the retiring Mayor.

Former Mayor Stephens, who is 50 years old, and had served the city for 22 years, welcomed into office the new Mayor and Commissioners Herman Zierrath, John T. Connors, John J. Hallihan and Albert P. Lauman, Mayor Doyle, who is president of the Home Ice Cream and Ice Co., thanked his business associates for their gift of a Lincoln sedan, and also thanked the 300 citizens who crowded into the Council room for electing him to office.

KILLED IN JUMP FROM BUS

Robert Urban, driver of the Red and White Motorstage Co. bus, which was wrecked Tuesday near Jonesburg, Mo., when six of its passengers were injured and one was killed, declares that A. D. May, Negro school teacher of Columbia, Mo., the passenger killed, met his death not as a result of the collision wrecking the bus, but because he jumped out of the bus, running into the path of another auto.

May, according to Urban, saw the impending collision with a truck parked in the middle of the road and jumped, the other passengers being injured by the impact of the collision. Dr. H. E. Jones, a passenger of Fayetteville, Ark., corroborated Urban's account.

DENIES INJURING WOMAN

Dr. John H. Simon, former Democratic nominee for Mayor, who was sued for $15,000 damages in Circuit Court by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Engler, alleging that he angrily ejected Mrs. Engler from his office, injuring her, said yesterday he had a good defense.

"Two years ago," he explained, "Mrs. Engler came into my office and behaved in a boisterous manner. As a result I had to put her out."

41 NEW INDUSTRIES COME TO ST. LOUIS WITHIN ONE YEAR

Municipal Advertising Campaign Brought 11 Directly, Report Shows—Industrial Club to Carry On.

222 FIRMS ARRIVE IN CITY IN 7 YEARS

F. W. A. Vesper, Chairman of Committee, Says Further Success Is Assured by Enthusiasm.

Of 41 new industries which have located in St. Louis in the last year, 11 are directly traceable to the Municipal Advertising Campaign, according to the annual report of the Municipal Advertising Committee issued today by F. W. A. Vesper, chairman of the committee for the next year.

The advertising campaign has been directed for the last seven years by a joint committee from the Chamber of Commerce, City of St. Louis and the Advertising Club. It is proposed, however, that the campaign shall be carried on hereafter as one of the activities of the newly-formed Industrial Club of St. Louis, Thomas N. Dysart, president of the club, said. Vesper will be chairman of the Advertising Committee of the Industrial Club this year.

Plans for raising a sufficient fund to carry on the work of the club are embodied in a definite program of the first year's activities of that organization, which will be passed upon by members at their first monthly dinner meeting at Hotel Coronado tonight. The board of governors approved the program yesterday. It was drafted by the Organization Committee under direction of Dysart and Dr. W. F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank.

"The idea of the Industrial Club," said Dysart, "is simply to parallel the renewed efforts on foot in every representative city of the country. Detroit has launched its 'Greater Detroit Million Dollar Campaign' and Kansas City, Atlanta and Los Angeles are in the midst of similar campaigns to promote the industrial welfare of their cities.

Competition to Be Worthy. "Sufficient funds will be raised by our club to make St. Louis' competition among other cities a worthy one. Successful operation of the club is assured by the manner with which representative citizens have accepted the idea. Efficacy of the club is based on the fact that members must attend meetings in order to maintain their standing.

"Not only will the club increase our industrial life but, through studied surveys of our immediate territory, it will increase the marketing possibilities of existing firms in St. Louis and the great Southwest, of which this city is the gateway. This will be an important unit of the Industrial Bureau the club will supervise."

The Industrial Club of St. Louis was formally organized on March 17 last, with the primary purpose of bringing more industries to the St. Louis metropolitan district and promoting the welfare of existing industries. It is made up of approximately 30 men more than 55 years old, and about 100 younger men. Actual operation of the club is in the hands of its younger members, while the senior ones will act in the capacity of counselors.

In an address following his election at the March meeting, Dysart declared that St. Louis should raise a fund of $1,000,000, to be used over a four-year period.

The report of the Municipal Advertising Campaign, covering the fiscal year ending March 31, last, sets forth the steady growth of St. Louis as an industrial center since inception of the campaign seven years ago.

222 New Industries Come. "During the last seven years 222 new industries in 12 lines have come to St. Louis," the report says. "Of these, 74 came as a direct or indirect result of the advertising. Results of the advertising program have caused more than 80 other large cities to follow the example.

"Almost every line of manufacture is now represented in St. Louis. The city has nearly 4000 industries in 211 kinds of business. Because of the diversity of its industries, no depression in any one line can affect the prosperity of the city. United States Government statistics show that during the period of advertising, St. Louis has advanced steadily in the number of workmen employed, amount of wages paid and value of products manufactured, while almost all other industrial cities showed losses."

During the last year St. Louis advertising was placed in 24 national magazines with a combined circulation of more than 14,000,000 for each issue, the report points out. They reach virtually all classes of readers, and were chosen because of their dominance in specific fields. The report shows that the St. Louis News Service, operated in conjunction with the advertising campaign, placed articles on St. Louis in 42 trade, technical and class magazines during the last year. In addition, the report states, it obtained favorable publicity in newspapers throughout the country through news stories and photographs.

In a letter accompanying the report Vesper asks that subscribers to last year's advertising fund of $70,000 lend their support this year to the Industrial Club.

Girl Routs Negro Purse Snatcher. Miss Ruth Xanthos of 912B North Eighteenth street was seized by a Negro who tried to wrest away her purse on Eighteenth street near Lucas avenue last night. She broke away, screaming, and the Negro fled. Later at Eighteenth and Morgan streets police arrested a Negro whom she identified, but who denied the charge.

Estimates of Damage In Lake Taneycomo Region Still Impossible

Waters Are Receding From Resort Section of Southwest Missouri—Highway Systems Are Cut to Pieces.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 21.

Lashed for nearly a week by the turbulent waves of the worst flood since the first pioneers arrived in the Missouri Ozarks a century ago,

the Lake Taneycomo and White

River country has begun with a smile to bring order out of chaos

as the murky waters slowly recede.

With the withdrawal of the swollen stream from the higher ground along its course, the extent of the damage becomes more apparent, but only the merest hazard as to the losses that will be suffered is possible.

State, Federal and county highway systems throughout the Ozarks literally are cut to pieces and here again nothing like an accurate estimate of the damage is possible. Both bridges and approaches are washed out over some of the principal streams, and the item alone is expected to bring the cost of repairs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Summer Camps Swept Away.

Undoubtedly the Lake Taneycomo region, in the midst of preparation for the influx of summer tourists when the flood waters rose,

will be the worst sufferer. Not only were entire summer camps on the lower ground swept away, but the year-round homes of dwellers along the shores of the lake were inundated and some were carried away by the swirling waters.

The heaviest individual loser

probably is Robert Emmet, owner of a fleet of 11 motorboats on Lake Taneycomo. Of these five were torn from their moorings at Branson and no report has been heard of any of them. Among the five were the "Shepherd of the Hills," with a passenger capacity of 175, and the Sammy Lane, with a capacity of more than 100. These were the largest boats on the lake and made regular trips between

Branson and the dam at Fowersite, serving all the resorts along the lake.

Because of its place on the lower ground, the state Y. M. C. A. camp between Branson and Hollister was flooded but the buildings remained in place when the torrent subsidized.

Rockaway Beach, one of the largest camps on the lake between

Branson and Powersite, escaped with the loss of only a few cottages on the lower ground. Most of the cottages were on the higher ground that slopes back from the lake to the bluff, and thus escaped damage.

Ozark Beach, a short distance

ilar experience.

Serious Losses at Forsyth.

The most serious losses, however,

will be those of the residents of

Branson, Hollister and Forsyth, who homes either were swept away or largely were submerged

by the turbid waters of the eddies along the main stream.

These losses will include not only the damage to household furnings, but the cost of repairs. Furniture, from ordinary chairs to grand pianos, was ruined almost totally as the result of its drenching, and plaster is falling from walls and ceilings as it dries.

While both Branson and Hollister suffered in this way, the little inland town of Forsyth, nestling beside the river up which the hardy pioneers poled their flatboats to the roofs. Furnishings were damaged badly, for everything from cookstoves to lace curtains has been moved into yards to dry in the infrequent sunshine while the coating of mud that had plastered

the interior of the homes was being removed.

TAKE FIFTH JUROR IN 173 EXAMINED AT SNYDER TRIAL

Attorneys Accept Retired Business Man to Weigh Murder Evidence Against Woman and Gray.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 21.—Counsel for Mrs. Ruth Snyder had expended one-half their allotted number of 30 peremptory challenges at noon today and the jury for the Snyder murder trial was still less than half completed. At that time, counsel for Henry Judd Gray, co-defendant with the woman, had used 11 peremptory challenges and the State seven.

The trial had been in progress three days and a half, and of the 173 talesmen examined up to noon today, only five had been found acceptable to all sides. The fifth juror, accepted soon after court convened today, is Herman Bolway, a retired business man of Jamaica, L. I.

Bolway was the one hundred and sixty-seventh talesman examined since the trial opened Monday. His selection came half an hour after court opened today. He is 65 years old.

A hotel publicity agent, a landscape gardener, a plumber out of work and a clerk are the other jurors chosen to hear the evidence against Mrs. Snyder and Gray, jointly charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder.

The jury box was one-third filled yesterday after 161 talesmen had been examined. On Monday 60 potential jurors were weighed and every one found wanting in the opinion of either the State or one side of the two-part defense. Tuesday only 37 talesmen were examined, but William E. Young, the publicity man, was accepted as foreman. He was the sixty-third man examined. Yesterday 74 talesmen passed through the jury box and the ninety-first, the one hundred and forty-fifth and the one hundred and forty-ninth to be questioned since the trial began were accepted for duty. They were Charles Meisner, gardener; Harry Arnold, plumber, and Albert Kraemer, clerk.

The greatest obstacle to selection of a jury has been conscientious scruples among the talesmen against the death penalty. For this cause 25 were excused yesterday, 10 leaving the box together from one group of 12 sworn.

The twelfth talesman of today was excused because he had attended a dinner at which Dana Wallace, of counsel for Mrs. Snyder, made a speech. He said the effect of that address on him would prevent him listening to the evidence with an open mind.

DENIES CHURCH INTERFERENCE
Dr. Straton Says Reported Order on Murder Trial Is Fabrication.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 21.—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, today denounced as utterly false and pure fabrication published reports that the church board of deacons had called upon him to discontinue his writing on the Snyder murder trial for a New York newspaper.

"I have no statement to make," he said. "The officers of the church will handle that." Members of the board of deacons declined to comment on the reports.

MISSOURI RIVER CUTS THROUGH DIKE

Break 12 Miles East of St. Charles Inundates 4000 Acres.

Flood conditions in the vicinity of St. Louis were less dangerous at some points today while the situation at other points remained serious. An increasing amount of farm land is being inundated, continuing either to prevent families from returning to their homes or confining their quarters to the second story and further breaks in the levees are threatened, particularly near the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers. The Missouri River levee near Black Walnut, Mo., 12 miles east of St. Charles, was pierced yesterday, flooding approximately 2000 acres of farm land. About 50 men are working today at this point, endeavoring to mend the break. A like strengthening is strengthening the levee where it runs parallel with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad about 10 miles east of St. Charles.

Although State Highway No. 40, the St. Louis, St. Charles, Kansas City road, is flanked by sandbags, four inches of water covered it today in St. Louis County near St. Charles, the result of the Missouri River stage there rising from 31 feet to 31.3 feet during the night.

Families Stay Despite Flood.
This also inundated more land in the Columbia Bottoms, at the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, bringing the total of farm land under water there to approximately 4000 acres. Families in this district are still traveling in rowboats and motorboats, many refusing to desert their homes, and living in the second story.

Conditions generally in St. Louis County are improving, however, since the Meramec River has receded and is within its banks. With the exception of the inundated Indian Lake Bottoms, which still keeps the Collinsville road closed, conditions on the East Side are unchanged. The water in these bottoms is the result of the closing of the flood gates at Cahokia, which prevents the water from draining.

Negroes Driven Out at Alton.
The Mississippi River's stage at Alton remained at 23.7 feet, the Negro district known as East End being still under two feet of water.

causing 40 Negro families to remain away from their homes. The Wood River Refinery of the Standard Oil Co., closed yesterday because of water in the stills, the result of imperfect drainage. Flour mills along the Mississippi continued in operation while water was pumped from the plants.

The Mississippi River at Grafton, Ill., at the mouth of the Illinois River, rose one inch during the night. The streets in this town of 1000 are still under two feet of water, and 30 families have taken refuge with friends.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

This is a simple method that makes blackheads go as if by magic. Get two ounces of Calomel powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub briskly over the affected parts, and in two minutes, you will find every blackhead dissolved away entirely.

The Smith & Davis GOLD SEAL spring has 120 coils in the 14" size—21 more than any other spring of its class. The diagram shows how the closer spacing of coils means restful support at every point of the body.

OSMAND NOT IMPRESSIVE IN WORKOUT FOR DERBY

Favorite for Kentucky Classic Tires After Being 'Ridden Out' One Mile by Sande—Chance Shot Beats Him.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21.—On a track that was by no means fast, Osmund, J. E. Widener's winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, turned in the fastest workout of the season for candidates of the 1927 turf classic in training at the local course, when he circled the oval at Churchill Downs in 1:43 2-5, yesterday.

The big gelding, though, was all in at the end of the mile, apparently no match for his stable mate, Chance Shot, with which he was sent over the route. Earl Sande had the leg up on the Derby favorite and he rode him hard through the stretch, using whip and boot to bring out all there was in him; while Chance Shot, which led him under the wire by a little more than half a length, was running easily. Had he been extended, Chance Shot could have beaten his stable mate by several lengths.

Osmund Just a Sprinter?

Several prominent horsemen witnessed the trial of Osmund and some of those and most of the large number of "railbirds" on hand for the exhibition were of the opinion that Osmund might be a sprinter and would have considerable trouble in going the Derby route, one mile and a quarter. Fractional time for the mile follows: One-eighth, 1:12; quarter, :24; three-eighths, :36; half, :48 1-5; five-eighths, 1:01 3-5; six-furrows, 1:16; and mile in 1:43 2-5.

Willie Garner was astride Chance Shot, which took the lead almost at the start of the mile trial, and finished full of run. At one stage of the journey Chance Shot was nearly two lengths ahead of Osmund, but the latter gained steadily until the head of the stretch was reached when he began to tire and faltered despite the evident efforts of Sande. Osmund was carrying about 127 pounds, one pound more than the Derby weight. Chance Shot, which was not nominated for the Derby, had up about the same weight.

Kiev's Workout Good.

The trial of Kiev, the other Derby eligible in the Widener stable, was not nearly as fast as that of Osmund, but he finished in much better shape and acted as though he might like to go a longer route. Kiev was worked with Laddie in 1:48 2-5. His fractional time follows: Continued on Page 15.

BROWNS EXPECT TO EVEN SERIES WITH SAM JONES IN BOX

Rain in Detroit Brings Idleness After Shutout by Whitehill

Tom Zachary Makes Futile Attempt to Suppress Heilmann, Manush, Fothergill Attack — Detroit Tied for League Lead, but Still Not Pennant Timber.

By Jack Alexander,
of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff
DETROIT, April 21.—This stay in Detroit, as Dan Howley predicted on the way up, is proving especially tough. Rain this afternoon forced postponement of the second contest of the series, causing gloom for the Browns to pile up, in view of yesterday's 7-0 defeat.

But Sam Jones is ready to take his regular turn on the mound and tomorrow things may look a little different, as Sam is a right-hander as the Tigers are predominantly right-handed at bat. Sam Gibson, who is also a right-hander, will pitch for Detroit. Gibson, Whitehill and Holloway are the backbone of the Tiger pitching.
"Whitehill was invincible," was the only explanation offered for yesterday's defeat. No other reason was necessary. A lot of fine extra-base hits were wasted except for their moral effect on the crowd of 15,000 persons who turned out for their first view of Moriarty's hopes. Power, crushing and relentless, was the impression the Tigers gave on offense. Any pitcher may well review his lectures and consider his notes on individual batting weaknesses before getting reckless with such killers as Manush, American League 1926 batting champion, and Fothergill and Heilmann, who finished in the first four.

Even Taverer Gets His Hits.
Even Taverer, the little lead-off man, battled with power as he slammed out two singles and a double. Lu Blue socked two two-baggers for his end of the stick work, and McManus got one. Defensively the Tigers look well. Warner has developed into a splendid third baseman and put up a great deal with Frank O'Rourke, the fielding honors. Both drew a lot of attention for their sparkling work and O'Rourke's former connection here made him all the more popular. It is said here that Warner failed to accomplish much last year because Ty Cobb "rode" him too hard and he was scared, but he is over his bashfulness now.

Despite the showing of the Tigers in winning their way into an important tie for first place with the Yankees, the opinion among observers and with Moriarty himself, is that they are just a first division team with no business hoping for the pennant.

The uncertainty regarding the pitching is the reason for this judgment. None of Moriarty's three headlines is what might be termed a veteran. George Daus may not play at all this year due to a nervous breakdown. Lu Roner and Rip Collins are unknown quantities and John Walkup, Hankins and Smith may or may not develop into something. Moriarty can be sure of one thing and that is hitting power. If they have their hitting clothes men who pay them.

"An' man," he comments, "who will pay more than $25 for a ticket to a fight ought to be arrested."
And that isn't all.
"Ticket speculators," he adds, "who boost the prices for the big fights, aren't half as bad as the persons who pay them. Men of means who will not patronize a hospital fund show, will glory in having to pay a scalper $100 for a single seat."

There's one protection for the general public—so many of the 15 rows of "ringside" seats have to be set aside for "influential friends" that the general public doesn't have to worry about paying the price.
There aren't any left.
At least there are not many, nearer than binocular distance.

Money, Delaney.
JACK DELANEY threatens to surrender his light heavyweight championship title because there is "not enough money in it."
The New York Commission has refused to permit him to box in the real heavyweight division while he is still light heavyweight. Hence, overboard with the title!

The best that Jack can hope to earn out of the light heavyweight crown is about $100,000 a fight—mere pin money these days.
Delaney read where Tunny would make $200,000 out of his next title bout. That ruined Delaney.

It all leads like fiction, this amazing financial aspect of boxing, especially when one considers the little that a fighter gets and the stupendous reward he receives.

Dempsy received more than three-quarters of a million for a truly lamentable exhibition. He Colt Won Over $32,000 Last Year but Fails to Rank Among Top 3-Year Olds of East.

NO. 11—GENERAL HALDEMAN.

By CLEMENT GAUB.
Although Gen. Haldeman was rated one of the leading 2-year-olds on the Kentucky tracks last year, he hardly measures up to the top flight colts in the East, and on that form the invaders should have little fear of him in the Derby in May. His best race was in the Queen City Handicap, at one mile, in which he beat Creek Indian. Afterglow, winner of the Keene Memorial, Teheran, No Regrets, Bewithus and several other good horses.

Gen. Haldeman began his racing career early, starting in the Louisiana Juvenile Stakes at Fairground and finished third to Sixteen Sixty and Singing Cricket. This race was the only start he made at the New Orleans oval during the winter.

Later he was sent to Lexington, where he started twice and finished first both times. These races were during the spring meeting. The horse did not win a race in 11 starts during the summer, although he finished second five times.

In the fall Gen. Haldeman was shipped to Latonia to start in the Queen City Handicap. He ran four preliminary races but did not score a victory. He started in the Queen City and scored a lucky triumph over his opposition. Rolled Stocking, a capable colt, was in the lead coming into the stretch and appeared to be a certain winner, but near the finish the horse stumbled and fell and Gen. Haldeman

Following the close of the Kentucky racing season Gen. Haldeman was sent to New Orleans. He started three times at Jefferson Park during the first meeting but did not finish better than fifth. In his first start at New Orleans, Gen. Haldeman threw his jockey and bolted to the fence.

Gen. Haldeman's victory in the Queen City Handicap swelled his winning total to $22,000.
The colt can race on wet and dry tracks and is considered an excellent mud runner. His best race was over a course that was muddy.

Gen. Haldeman Engages in Good Derby Workout

Kenton Farm Stable Entry Does Three - Quarters in 1:20 2-5—Track Heavy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEXINGTON, Ky., April 21.—Gen. Haldeman, Kenton Farm Stable's crack 3-year-old by Thunderstorm, out of La Dolores, continued his training for the Kentucky Derby this morning at the local track by working three-quarters in 1:20 2-5.

Gen. Haldeman completed his journey handsly. He went the half in :52 2-5. The chestnut was being trained by William Perkins, Negro trainer, but since the latter's death a few days ago, he is being cared for by Raleigh Colston, Perkins' assistant.

The track continued heavy, but a brisk wind swept over it and track attaches predicted a fast course for the opening race Saturday.

Bonaire and Rolled Stocking, Frank J. Kelly's and J. W. Parrish's nominees respectively, prepared for a more difficult move Friday by working three-eighths this morning. Both went the route in :41.

J. Cal Milam, breeder, his Derby hope, Mr. Kirkwood, a half mile and the black son of Squander—Segurola responded in :53.

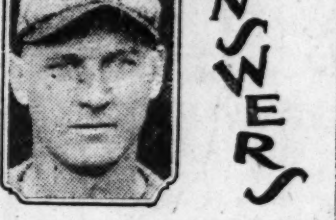

Orman, another Derby candidate, worked in company with Handy Ben, going three-quarters in 1:24 2-5 and then pulling up to in 1:59.

Hydromel, Senator Johnson N. Camden's eligible, turned in an impressive workout yesterday afternoon when he went a mile handsly in 1:45. Hydromel broke from the stand with Oh Susanna and for the first five-eighths his running mate was out in front, going the five-furlongs in 1:01 2-5, an exceptionally good move.

ROY DEFEATS NEWTON AND GETS CANADIAN LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

MONTREAL, Quebec, April 21.—Leo "Kid" Roy, featherweight champion of Canada, added the lightweight title to his laurels last night when he was awarded a decision over Chris Newton, Toronto, in a 12-round bout. Roy weighed 120½, Newton 124.

O'FARRELL'S ANSWERS

Which is the older league, the National or the American? N. C. The National is the older.

If an umpire is ill after the game has begun, what is the procedure? M. P.

If there are two umpires, permit the other to finish the game. If there is only one umpire, the best thing to do is to have the captains agree on two men to finish the game.

Batter hit the ball for an apparent home run. On the way to third the shortstop was in the way and the runner (batter) ran into the shortstop and pushed him aside and made third. The umpire sent the runner home from third on the ground of interference. Had the umpire the right to do so? A. C. C.

If the umpire judged there was interference he had a perfect right to advance the runner.

It is the impression here that if the batter hits the ball and the ball hits home plate, the batter is out. I claim that he is not out and that the ball is fair or foul as it rolls, which is right?

HARD ROAD LEAGUER.
The ball is fair or foul as it rolls, as all of home plate is in fair territory.

Until today the fastest workout of Derby eligibles was that of H. T. Archibald's Candy Queen, which not only the mile in 1:44, but over a track that was considerably better than that of today. However, the Archibald filly finished her mile in much better shape than did Osmund.

Among the notables that saw the workout of Osmund were Col. M. J. Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey Club, C. M. Hendrie, president of the Windsor (Ontario)

Kaiser Cancels Coliseum Match Owing to Injury

Doctor Advises Local Featherweight Not to Box Hopfinger Next Thursday.

"Peewee" Kaiser, St. Louis featherweight fighter, who was scheduled to box in one of the features of the next Coliseum flat show, today reported that he would not be able to fight for at least 10 days.

His hand, injured in a bout in Belleville, was still badly swollen today and his physician advised him not to use it either in practice or in fighting for some time. Manager Jack Callahan said that Kaiser would not under any circumstances risk seriously hurting his hand by fighting before his physician permitted him to.

He reported Kaiser's condition. Promoter Jack Tibbett, the matter will be taken up with the City Boxing Commission this afternoon.

Johnny Hopfinger of Wisconsin was to have been Kaiser's opponent next week.

Negotiations now in progress for three preliminary events of the New Coliseum program will probably be consummated today, it was said.

An injury suffered in a match with Jack Leach, whom he defeated at Mason City, Ia., last Tuesday night, also forced Carl Augustine—St. Paul heavyweight battler, to withdraw from his scheduled 10-round bout with Tom Pivce of this city, on the New Coliseum fight program for next Thursday night.

Matchmaker Tippet was informed of Augustine's withdrawal this morning, when Ham Schilling, manager of the St. Paul fighter, advised him that an X-ray examination made yesterday revealed that Augustine's right hand had been broken in two places.

Tippet stated that he would request the City Boxing Commission to return Augustine's appearance forfeit and authorize the substitution of another fighter as substitute opponent. Lou Rollings, a difficult heavyweight, who boasts a string of 18 knockout victories, and Billy Preise, the Oklahoma mauler, who stopped Babe McCortury last winter, are fighters Tippet is considering in his efforts to secure a capable substitute for Augustine.

Jockey Club: John E. Madden, Hamburg Place; George Terry, manager of Mr. Widener's Elmendorf Farm, and John Ferris, a trainer of Fred J., also a formidable candidate for Derby honors.

Professor Best
In Dog Feature
At Madison Park

Fine Field Will Compete in Quarter-Mile Greyhound Event Tonight.

All the greyhounds which made ineffectual attempts to beat Ballyknockin are bunched tonight in the quarter mile feature at the Madison Kennel Club. There is Professor, Silver Tip, Reigning Regent and Pride of Kerry—the nucleus of a stem-winding contest. The draw for position favored Pride of Kerry and Professor, the former having the six hole and Professor the four.

Reigning Regent, partial to an outside position, will run out of number three and may not go so good. Professor is breaking fast and is likely to beat the others around the dangerous turn. For this reason Professor is the choice.

More young imports are scheduled to run in the first race. Mila ran a fast schooling race and looks like the winner. Spalding Bowser, belonging to Hipolyte de Bernard, also showed to good advantage with Stuntney Tune will form the contention. Much depends on the break.

Gun Boat Due Again.
Louis Molasky's Gun Boat won its first out after running wide all the way, displaying high speed. He should repeat in the quarter provided he gets around the turn. La Verne is experienced and will take advantage of any mistakes made by the pups.

The distance race brings out some fast youngsters, of which Bryn Coldstream is the fastest. He seems to be improving every start and with an outside position should beat Orange Bitters and He Might Buck. Bitters was out in front the other night but tired badly in the stretch and was out of the money. He Might Buck closes strongly and could win it all if he knew more about keeping out of jams.

The hurdles is nicely balanced with Miller Boy, Lester D. Boy, Blue, Rough Steam and Old Port to make it a contest. Miller Boy and Lester D. are evenly matched and the breaks will decide the issue.

In the semifinals today Lott will meet Pare and Van Rys will oppose his teammate, Maginn. Mrs. John Jessup of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Bernard Stens, New York, entered the final round of the women's tournament by defeating Miss Claire Cassel and Mrs. B. F. Briggs, respectively, both of New York. The matches were won in straight sets.

The semifinal to next Tuesday night's heavyweight mat contest between Jimmy London and Paul Jones at the New Coliseum arena will bring together Renato Gardini, former Italian title holder, and John Patrick Rooney, an Irish heavyweight, in a one-fall trial bout, according to an announcement today by Tom Packs, the local wrestling impresario.

Gardini has participated in several local bouts in the past, scoring a victory over Jimmy London in one of his most impressive engagements. Rooney is a newcomer to St. Louis mat circles. Arrangements have been made for the principals in the New Coliseum final to finish their training activities at the National Gymnasium in this city. London is due here tomorrow and Jones is scheduled to report Saturday.

ING TEN TO SEND STRONG ENTRY TO
THE PENN RELAYS

Only Two Western Conference Schools Fail to Name Teams — Scholz to Oppose Locke.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—With the last minute entries of Minnesota and Illinois, eight Western conference universities will participate in the thirty-third annual relays of Pennsylvania relay carnival on April 29 and 30.

This is the largest entry list from the conference since the start of the carnival. Only Northwestern and Purdue of the Big Ten will not be represented.

With Roland Locks, Henry Russell and Jackson Scholz running in special 100 and 220 yard dashes and with Lord Burghley and his Cambridge teammates in special relay events, this year's program promises to furnish some unusually good competition. Nearly every section of the country is represented, and an entry from Delta College Institute of Hamilton, Canada, and the Cambridge team give the relays an international flavor.

The University of Wisconsin is sending a complete team, including men for the special events. Robert Kreu, who finished second in the javelin last year, is regarded as the favorite in the event this year because of the graduation of Jordan of Maine, the winner in 1925.

Minnesota and Illinois will have entries in the four-mile relay championship race, along with Wisconsin, Ohio State, Harvard, Princeton, Penn State, Cornell, Union and 18 other institutions from the East. Ohio State has drawn the pole.

Michigan has entered relay teams and specialists. Hester, winner of the 100-yard dash last year, will defend his championship, while Capt. Northrop will compete in the pole vault and the javelin throw. Anton Burg will defend his high jump title won last season, being the only representative from Chicago. Iowa and Indiana will be represented by relay teams and individuals.

The South will be represented by many institutions, including the University of Virginia, Georgia Tech, Alabama Polytechnic. Lord Burghley has drawn the pole in the 400-meter hurdles. His team has the pole in the 400-yard shuttle hurdle.

Spend this Summer in Southern California!

Now is the time to plan your vacation here where days are glorious and nights always cool

SOUTHERN California—land of mile-high mountains and blue sea, of painted desert and rugged canyon, of pleasant fairway and colorful tradition—invites you to a supreme vacation of infinite variety. Come this summer.

Come, and wing over wonderful roads with adventure at every turn. Come where days are joyous and nights are cool. Come by train or come in your own motor car, or rent a car when you get here and drive yourself. But come.

Here are your favorite pastimes—golf, tennis, ocean bathing, hiking, camping, mountain climbing, motoring, sightseeing are only a part of what you will enjoy. Here is an entrancing summer climate where the average mean temperatures of 50 consecutive years have been (U. S. Weather Bureau, official): June, 66 degrees; July, 70; August, 71; September, 69.

Here are rainless days, where pleasures can be planned weeks ahead in perfect confidence. These pleasant summer temperatures are of low humidity. Evenings call for light wraps, nights nearly always require blankets.

How this romantic land will fascinate you! You will cross the great West, in a few hours beholding prairies, mountains, deserts purple in sunset. Then—the blue Pacific, orange groves, palm trees, the Pilgrimage Play, music amid the hills of Hollywood, Old Spanish Missions, homes of a new architecture, people of a gayer viewpoint. You will see motion pictures being made and oil field derricks rising out of hill and sea. Awaiting you is truly an enchanted land where homes are more picturesque, life gayer, spirits brighter.

You will see an immense amount in a short time. Five thousand miles of paved boulevards, marked by the Automobile Club of Southern California with 180,000 guide signs, together with railroads, stage and boat trips, and 1,100 miles of trolley lines, radiate from the central city of Los Angeles—cosmopolitan, inspiring metropolis of more than a million people. You will marvel at the growth and resources of Los Angeles County, one of the richest communities in the country.

Special low round trip fares are extended by the railroads from May 15th to October 31st.

At very small additional cost, you can come via Los Angeles and San Diego, returning via Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane—seeing the Great Pacific Coast in one memorable trip. Your nearest ticket agent will explain.

FREIGHT RATES GIVE ST. LOUIS PREFERENCE FOR FACTORIES

Shoe Company's Selection Given I. C. C. as Evidence in Kansas City's Fight.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—St. Louis' advantage over Kansas City in freight rates led to the selection of St. Louis by the Endicott Shoe Co. as its middle western branch factory point, it was disclosed yesterday at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on class freight rates.

Evidence was presented by the lower Missouri River cities, Kansas City, St. Joseph and Atchison, through J. H. Tedrow, local transportation commissioner. "By shipping in carload lots," he said, "from New York to St. Louis, the company could obtain better rates than shipping here, to distribute in less than carload lots. Combination rates on jobbing articles generally show Kansas City out of line with Chicago and St. Louis."

He presented exhibits to show that Kansas City products were at a disadvantage in competing with rivals in cities to the east. Citations of rate decisions were made to show that Kansas City should be treated by the commission as advantageously as the Arkansas, Louisiana and Southwestern territory was recently treated, when approximately 15 per cent lower rates were approved. Kansas City's main contention is for breaking down the rate basis at the Mississippi River.

HE IS NOW LIEUT. J. J. CARROLL

Detective-Sgt. John J. Carroll was promoted to a lieutenant by the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday to fill the vacancy created by the recent demotion of Lieut. Fred Reinwald to the rank of patrolman for drinking.

Lieut. Carroll, who has been active in investigating homicides and gang warfare, will continue with the Secret Service Bureau at headquarters. Lieut. Anthony Adrevo was transferred from the Fourth District to the First, to succeed Reinwald, and Lieut. Albert Helmholz from the Secret Service to the Fourth. During the Cuckoo-Italian bootleg feud, Carroll's "gun squad" organized to disarm police characters, had several skirmishes with gangsters, and shot and killed Anthony Selvaggi, a Cuckoo, and Joseph Bommarito, an Italian gunman. Carroll is a bachelor and lives with his mother at 3509 Clark avenue, in the house where he was born. He was a professional baseball pitcher before joining the force in 1907.

COOLIDGE FISHING FOR SUPPORT OF FARMERS IN 1928

Sends McNary Into Corn Belt With Promise to Sign Camouflaged Substitute for Vetoed Bill.

WANTS 'UNANIMOUS DEMAND' FOR HIM

Paving Way for Attempt at 'What Washington Wouldn't Have and Roosevelt Couldn't Get.'

By CHARLES MICHELSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Incidents indicating that President Coolidge intends to be, if he can, the first three-time President of the United States continue to multiply.

When Senator McNary of Oregon, co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, undertakes a mission to the untitled farmers to induce them to agree to a substitute for their pet measure, in order to produce before the next Congress something the President will sign, the proof appears conclusive.

McNary has cherished a dream of becoming Vice President on a Lyndon ticket. His acceptance of this assignment from Mr. Coolidge means that he has given up that dream, but maybe he is only changing it for one that will give him second place on the Coolidge ticket.

The understood willingness of the President to accept a camouflaged McNary-Haugen bill, only differing in a few essentials from the one he damned, in itself is a fair index on how his mind is running. The bill McNary is trying to put over with the leaders in the movement for a farm subsidy only eliminates the provisions for an equalization fee, which was to be the tax the farmers would pay to reimburse the Treasury for the $250,000,000 revolving fund it is to supply, and to leave the President the selection of the members of the stabilization boards who are to play the market with the surplus crops.

Hardly Needs Farm States. In all probability Mr. Coolidge could get the nomination without bothering to placate the farm states. With his delegations from the East and C. Bascom Slomp taking care of the dark states men from the South, and what he will get from such industrial states as Ohio and Indiana, he could afford to ignore the corn belt and the wheat country, even if former Gov. Lyndon or Vice President Dawes got every one of them.

However, some consideration must be given to the violation of the sentiment against a third term. It must appear as if there was a solid demand that the President consent to serve again; a mandate from his party so nearly unanimous that no patriotic American could fail his personal desires in opposition to his country's call.

Hence the indicated nod for the delegations from Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, not to mention the Dakotas.

Possibly the threat from the farm crowd that if they did not get preference in proportion to the tariff would be the big element of justice in the would join the Democrats in effecting a reduction of the duties on aluminum, steel and textiles, may have had some part in the conversion of Mr. Coolidge. The tariff is the big element of justice in the farmers' complaint. "They never tire of asking why they should have to sell in a free market, subject to the competition of foreign goods at Liverpool, where the world price is made, and buy everything from pins to plow and hats to harvesters, in a market boomed by the highest tariff in the nation's history."

Actually there is nothing worse than the threat than possible embarrassment of the President in having to veto a tariff measure passed by a Republican Congress. There is no greater possibility of such a measure being passed over his veto than there is that the old McNary-Haugen bill should succeed by the process. It is quite possible that the farm crowd could muster enough anti-administration votes in the Senate to override the veto, but there is no such chance in the position in both branches overruled in the recent Congress.

Assuming, as everybody does, that Mr. Coolidge is the candidate, he is vitally concerned to win in with him enough Repub-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tell of injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never back tyrants with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely partial news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

"Mr. Wu" Not to Be Taken Seriously.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In answer to Mr. Alfred C. T. Li, who sees a sinister motive behind Mr. Carl Laemmle's portrayal of the sinister mandarin, "Mr. Wu," I venture to say there is nothing more sinister in it than an attempt to corner box-office dollars. Surely you wouldn't grudge him an honest dollar?

The sole purpose of the photoplay is to entertain. Mr. Li would say the picture, like the voyages of some prominent men, is bereft of political significance. We like to think of the Chinese as sinister. Mr. Laemmle is well aware of the fact. The more sinister the Chinaman, the better the photoplay, the greater the receipts, the more tea. Surely you wouldn't grudge him an honest dollar?

What if the Chinese daughter does burn incense before her father's feet in the photoplay, and what if it is contrary to fact? It looks silly. What if the old mandarin does soak a massive goose to have the water bring in soup, when all modern Chinese homes, as a matter of fact, are equipped with electric buzzers. It isn't intriguing to see a mandarin burn incense before his father's feet? It isn't intriguing to see a mandarin burn incense before his father's feet? It isn't intriguing to see a mandarin burn incense before his father's feet?

Mr. Laemmle is not willfully casting any aspersions on your race. It is unfortunate, I agree, that sinister Chinamen are appealing. They have something, you know, it must be "it." Mr. Wu certainly had "it." And so long as sinister Chinamen have "it," we are going to have them in our photoplays, along with sliding panels, leering eyes, clucking claws, poisoned pinettes, grasping grips, elevating eyebrows and grim grins.

They will continue to stab and plot and jump behind dissembling portraits by the sacred dragon of the five walls of Whoothee, they will.

I thought "Mr. Wu" was a corking picture.

Contrasting Philosophies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE discussion between Mr. Charles C. Marshall and Gov. Smith offers an interesting contrast of philosophies. Mr. Marshall's premise seems to be that of the ancient divinity, Roma Dea Immortalis. Reasoned to a logical conclusion, it would be the antithesis of the Christian idea of individual responsibility and its historical conception of democracy, born in the Middle Ages and brought to full flower in the Constitution of the United States. It would render void the school and the church, the creature of that divinity, the politician as exemplified by the State. The very popularity of this thesis shows an unmistakable trend towards pure, unadulterated paganism.

Jurors Not Infatigable.

THE writer of the letter in your issue of April 11, on the Sacco-Vanzetti case was surprised to think that a paper of your size and reputation would print an article of which part of it reads: "We do not know upon what the Massachusetts court bases its latest refusal to give these men a chance to prove their innocence before a jury."

He states the fact that he is "personally acquainted with two of the men who served on the jury" and that "they are men of great business capacity which has made them successful in their lines." Perhaps, some of your readers remember that it was a jury made up of just this class of men that convicted the Sacco-Vanzetti case. I haven't $1000, but I'm willing to bet $1000 he reads this.

Stop Signals for Our Street Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

STOP signal lights on our street cars are very much needed, to prevent rear-end collisions. The stop signal lights will attract attention of both motorist and autoist. Occasionally, owing to one's physical condition, rear-end light on auto, street car or any other vehicle which has been stopped appears to be still moving forward. But the stop signal, flashing on and off in red light, would be plainly observed. Red light usually means danger.

I am interested, because I happened to be a passenger on a Kirkwood-Ferguson car recently when a rear-end collision occurred. The motorist alone, as far as I know, was injured badly, several persons were shocked severely. I believe that the stop signal would have avoided this particular accident. I hope the United Railways will soon conclude that the stop signal is a necessity to prevent accident.

A PATRON.

RELIEF FOR FLOOD VICTIMS.

The flood on the lower Mississippi and its tributaries is now counted as one of the most disastrous in history. The growth of population and reclamation of lands which have been protected by dykes and levees, add enormously to the fatalities and property losses and suffering of the people whose homes and farms have been inundated.

Although the worst effects of the flood are below Missouri, yet the three lower counties in this State have been struck by disaster. Gov. Baker has ordered out seven National Guard units to go on duty in Mississippi, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties. Missouri, however, is fortunate as compared with her neighbors farther south and on the eastern shore. Victims and refugees are numbered by thousands, and their immediate plight, wholly apart from the property losses they have suffered, calls for prompt and liberal aid.

The Red Cross is in the field, prepared to do the necessary work of relief. But the Red Cross is helpless without the means to supply food and shelter to the homeless.

The appeal for relief funds has been made to St. Louis and the entire State. The Red Cross is asking for $200,000 from St. Louis. The people of St. Louis and the business interests of St. Louis are closely connected and deeply concerned with the regions devastated by the flood. They should do their full part in supplying ample funds for whatever may be necessary to relieve suffering and re-establish the prosperous activities of the victims.

Wholly apart from any material consideration, the situation has an irresistible appeal on the ground of humanity. It is a call from suffering neighbors.

Contributions should be sent at once to Festus J. Wade, treasurer of the St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross, at the Mercantile Trust Co. Promptness is essential to the best results.

THE LOST IS FOUND.

Secretary Kellogg said in a statement as to China on Jan. 27:

"The Government of the United States . . . is ready now to continue the negotiations on the entire subject of the tariff and extraterritoriality, or to take up negotiations on behalf of the United States alone. The only question is with whom it shall negotiate. As I have said heretofore, if China can agree upon the appointment of delegates representing the authorities or the people of the country we are prepared to negotiate such a treaty."

Time has remedied that defect. We are now negotiating with the allied Powers, who speak for China.

After repeated statements by the White House spokesman, we begin to gather that Mr. Coolidge thinks highly of Hoover.

DISLOYALTY DEFINED.

Our professional patriots have solved one of their chief problems. They have at last found out just what is the meaning of the charge of disloyalty to the United States. For some time they have been hurrying this charge without being able to define it. Now this difficulty has been removed by the action of the American Legion post of West Chester, Pa., in forcing the dismissal of two teachers from the State Normal School. These instructors are charged with having criticized our Government's policy in Nicaragua and Mexico, and one of them with being a Democrat and having supported William B. Wilson against Representative Vane at the last election. From these specific charges we get a full definition of what constitutes disloyalty. It is disloyalty to the United States.

To doubt that our conduct in Nicaragua and Mexico is actuated by any other motive than the altruistic desire to bless the brown brother with stable government, and other features of our superior civilization.

To vote for a candidate who has been nominated by honest methods in preference to one who has been nominated by corrupt methods. To be a Democrat.

Ridding the country of disloyalty will be a comparatively easy task with this new definition to steer by. All the feat will involve is the wiping out of all critics of imperialism, all believers in honesty, and all Democrats.

Will Durant is going to review the Snyder-Gray murder trial, which is quite a jump from Plato and Spinoza.

INDIANA'S CROCODILE TEARS.

Indiana seems to be going through another siege of acute political indignation. From Lake Michigan to the Ohio River, a wall of sorrow and mortification is being lifted by the kind of persons who have so often engaged in that sort of thing in the past.

There are three immediate causes of Indiana's present affliction. Her Governor recently had the brazenness to ask the Legislature to refuse to investigate charges that he was under financial obligations to D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the State Klan, and now a convicted murderer in State's prison. Then the evidence produced in the impeachment trial of Judge Clarence Dearth indicated that juries were being stacked against violators of the dry laws and enemies of the Klan. Finally, a member of the Indianapolis grand jury which is investigating charges of Klan corruption has made affidavit that a local Republican boss offered him a fat purse and a nice job, on condition that he refuse to vote an indictment against Mayor John Duval of Indianapolis.

There is nothing in this train of disclosures to cause Indiana any chagrin, for there is nothing in it to occasion her any surprise. She saw Grand Dragon Stephenson elect her present Governor, and she has witnessed the Klan-Antislavery alliance pick her Judges and Jury Commissioners for several years. She has denounced all this between elections, but kept right on voting for its continuance.

We suspect that Indiana actually would like to be rid of the Klan and all its allies, but hates to part with her one present claim to national attention. This is the only charitable and reasonable excuse we can imagine for a Commonwealth which is always bewailing its bad reputation, while doing everything possible to keep from getting a good one.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT.

We were given a closeup of the university president's job the other day by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia. He was replying to the eminent persons in public and journalistic life who had sharply criticized the Columbia faculty group that had joined in a request for the cancellation of the war debts. He defended his teachers in the exercise of their citizens' right of speech. Then came the "inside stuff." He is asked, not infrequently one gathers, to fire a professor who happens to express an opinion somebody dislikes. The president himself is even taken to task now and then for talking out loud. Continuing, he observed: "I should hate to say how many millions of dollars I have declined for Columbia because there were conditions attached which I deemed dishonorable or humiliating."

Such coercion and temptation, we imagine, is the common lot of university presidents. How many of them meet the adversary as courageously as Dr. Butler we have no way of knowing. But everybody knows that, in recent years particularly, Dr. Butler has boldly challenged the power and prestige of fanaticism when he might safely have kept silent. And contrasting this deportment with that of many other university heads who have cultivated popularity by acquiescing in the clamor of "Prince Mob," as Poe designated it, we can take literally and at its face value Dr. Butler's heartening definition that "Columbia can neither be bought nor intimidated."

The faculty's request for canceling the war debts was, we believe, inopportune and unwise. Far sounder, in our opinion, is the position of Prof. Taussig of Harvard, who concluded an illuminating discussion of this question recently with the judgment that the time is not ripe yet for suggestion or program. But the right of men, whether college professors or shovellers, to say their say on matters of public import must be held inviolable. And persons who challenge that right, be they members of Congress or eminent editors or captains of industry, are invoking the spirit of intolerance which is so miserably and menacingly at variance with our political philosophy.

The country is fortunate in having a Dr. Butler in the high office of education. It needs men of his marrow in politics, pulpit, press, business and every other activity of citizenship.

THE WORST IN TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS.

Everything the Post-Dispatch has said of the removal of Dr. George A. Johns as State Health Supervisor is corroborated by Col. R. M. White's letter to Gov. Baker, resigning from the State Eleemosynary Board. Col. White says:

"I am forced to the opinion that the present board is not carrying out the spirit and intent of the nonpartisan eleemosynary law which was intended to take the six institutions under its control out of politics for the good of the patients. Not being in harmony with the other members of the Board in policies of major importance as I see them I deem it my duty to the Governor, the State and myself to resign."

Col. White has served on the board 28 years, and in all that time it had not sunk to its present level of political degradation. The situation became more than he could stand, which is a sufficient commentary upon the kind of State government we have in Missouri under Gov. Baker.

By the testimony of one who has commanded an inside view it is the worst in 28 years.

OPPORTUNITY'S FAVORITE NICHE.

The office of Governor of Massachusetts stands a good chance of becoming opportunity's favorite niche. Consider the present incumbent, Mr. Fuller. A forthright chap, a personage in his own right, who, nevertheless, might never have made a national impact excepting for the Sacco-Vanzetti case. As it is he has become a figure under international observation.

Not so long ago there was another Governor of Massachusetts who methodically and regularly had climbed the political ladder round by round without causing a flutter in the public pulse. As drab a product as ever the machine of politics patterned. Along came the Boston police strike and the name of Calvin Coolidge was headlined out of obscurity into the path of renown.

It is idle curiosity, of course, to wonder what the Governor of Massachusetts would do today if his name were Calvin Coolidge—idle but intriguing. It may or may not engage Gov. Fuller. But the potentiality of his office must impress itself on him. As he sits at his desk destiny is apt to come bounding through the door any minute with a great big package of glory.

It would interest us to know what the weather is blowing about. We have seen better.

A CIVIL SERVICE TEST FOR DRY AGENTS.

The United States Civil Service Commission is having all sorts of trouble trying to formulate an examination for applicants for the position of prohibition enforcement officer. None of the examinations given applicants for ordinary Federal positions will serve here, as those tests cover only education, natural mental equipment, and previous experience, while in the case of prohibition officers something else is required. The Commission thinks this something is character and it has decided to examine records of crime to see if there are any criminals among the applicants. But this is about as near as it has come to formulating a test for prospective enforcers.

In this emergency we feel that we may, without presuming, come to the aid of the Civil Service Commission. We want to assure it that its concern over the character of prospective applicants for the job of enforcing Volsteadism is uncalled for. The first requirement of any examination for persons desiring this task is that it cover the specific duties which an enforcement officer must perform. Therefore, we offer the Commission three simple tests by which, we sincerely believe, the fitness of candidates may accurately be determined:

1. Would you make a search for liquor without first securing a warrant?

2. Would you inveigle a person into selling you a drink, and later arrest him for doing so?

3. Would you accept a lift from a trustful stranger, and upon discovering he had a pint of whisky in his car, arrest him for transporting liquor?

These tests, we assure the Commission, possess two virtues. They not only relieve it of the trouble of formulating tests of its own, but they will permit the enforcement bureau to be recruited speedily, as they can be answered immediately by anyone who is acquainted with the way in which prohibition enforcement has been conducted.

"HELP!"

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

PRECEDENT FOR RATE MAKING.

From the New Republic.
No more important decision has been rendered by the Interstate Commerce Commission since the war than that just handed down in the case of the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway. In addition to setting a number of minor points and clearing the way for recapture of excess earnings, it enunciates clearly for the first time, and logically justifies, the method which the commission proposed to follow in its valuation of the roads for rate-making purposes. It starts with the cost of reproduction of the property as of 1914. Cost of reproduction at that date is used because actual investment before then is difficult to ascertain, and it is believed that the reproduction value in 1914 does not differ greatly from investment cost, though, if anything, it is liberal to the investors. From that point on, however, the cost-of-reproduction theory is thrown aside, and increases in value are allowed only on the basis of the actual cost of capital additions, less depreciation. An able argument, too long to summarize in a paragraph, supports the "prudent investment" theory. The commission evidently hopes to convert the Supreme Court to its way of thinking. If sustained, this decision will make the total valuation of the railways at least $10,000,000,000 less than under the reproduction-cost theory. The majority opinion by Mr. Meyer is ably supplemented by a separate opinion from Mr. Eastman. Of the four dissenting Commissioners, one, Mr. Aitchison, agrees with the policy of the majority, but believes the commission legally bound by Supreme Court decisions to proceed otherwise. Two of the others, Messrs. Woodcock and Taylor, are Coolidge appointees, who, because of their known sympathies with the railroad point of view, were expected to support it, and were probably chosen for the commission largely on that account.

A LITTLE CHILD TO LEAD THEM.

From the Sacramento Bee.
FRANK DESPAIN, an agent of the prohibition bureau, and H. L. Targert, city patrolman, visited the home of Mrs. Anna Andrews to find, if possible, evidence that this poor woman had in her possession that by which they could nail her to the cross of Volsteadism.
Only her little 5-year-old child was in the house. And it was to this child that these officers of the law addressed themselves that she might lead them to the object of their search. A child was to be made the instrument by which her mother was to be sent to jail.
The child, however, could not discover the wine, but the two agents finally located a small quantity. They took the 5-year-old child to the police station. When the mother went to the police station to claim her baby she herself was taken into custody.
The officers were operating without a search warrant. They in effect kidnapped the child.
Their entire course of action from the time they reached the place until they arrested the mother who came to reclaim her baby was an outrage alike on the law and on common decency.

ONE OF OUR LEADING INDUSTRIES.

From the New York Post.
Whether or not Harvard is the richest university in the country is not very important, but the publication of the assets of that institution and of Columbia University reminds us of the enormous amount of money we have invested in higher education. The annual report of the treasurer of Harvard for 1925-26 places the total resources of the university at $38,540,236.82, which does not include the value of the land and the buildings. General investments amount to more than $61,000,000 and yearly expenditures to more than $3,000,000. The resources of Columbia University alone for the year ended June 30, 1926, amounted to $33,727,214.53. With the resources of Barnard College, Teachers College and the College of Pharmacy included, the resources of the Columbia group in 1926 amounted to $107,455,846.92. When we add the resources of the many other institutions of learning scattered over the country we realize that education has become one of our leading industries.

THE POLITICIANS' BIBLE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.
When Mr. Coolidge comes out in favor of the Bible one is reminded of Carlyle's comment when he was told that Margaret Fuller had exclaimed: "I accept the universe." "Faith," said Tammam, "the better." Mr. Coolidge, however, might have made his endorsement of Holy Scripture more agreeable by omitting his reference to its political value and being more enthusiastic over its literary quality and "the broad culture that comes from a general familiarity with it." He does so in a political value, of course. One point he makes in enumerating the merits of the Bible is that the existing American political system could hardly be supported without it. He would not have been Mr. Coolidge had he not appreciated at a glance the immense advantage a politician gains if he is able to convince people that his policy has Biblical support.

The acid test of the reaction to the Smith letter will come when Tom H. Tatten is elected to the House of Representatives. He is a member of the 1921 Legislature.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie McCarthy Tatten. The funeral will be held at an undertaking establishment at 3444 Lindell boulevard, at a time to be announced later.

JOHN G. NEWMAN

The Beethoven Legend

THE UNCONSCIOUS BEETHOVEN.
BY ERNEST NEWMAN (KROPP).
BEFORE undertaking a critical appraisal of Beethoven's music on the occasion of the recently celebrated centenary, Ernest Newman has deemed it necessary to consider what sort of man the great composer really was. It might be objected that the facts about Beethoven's private life do not greatly matter now that he has been dead a hundred years, and that the greatness of a composer can be judged only by examining his music.

Mr. Newman not only grants this point; he insists upon it. Unfortunately, he succeeds in showing that the Beethoven legend that has been accepted generally, hopelessly, is based on a fictitious Beethoven with values of his music, the result being that, out of the false conception of the man, musicians have been found in his music that are not there. Obviously, as Mr. Newman contends, in order to appraise the music for its intrinsic value it is necessary to examine the man's character by way of destroying the false basis for a false appraisal of the man's product.

"Beethoven became for the late nineteenth century," says Mr. Newman, "not a mere musician, the values of whose work should be judged by the purely esthetic standards we would apply to that of any other composer, but a man with a message, a seer, an oracle whose primary inspiration on all occasions was blasphemy to doubt. His music was admired not simply in terms of music, but as an achievement in morality."

It proves to be an unpleasant, even a nauseating, task that Mr. Newman has set for himself, that of revealing Beethoven, the man, as he was known in life. But it cannot be said by anyone who has read the book with care, that the author has been moved by prevailing fashion for debating the great by way of flattering the inferiority of the many. It is because of his profound love for the man's music that he attacks the false conception of the man.

What is left from Mr. Newman's discussion of Beethoven's character is a moving picture of a man whose whole outward life was pretty much a sorry mess. Beethoven was no philosopher striving for some idealistic synthetic vision of an apparently dual world. As a thinker of any sort he seems to have been rather infantile. The subjective world was evidently, for him, far more vivid than the objective world. "The truth seems to be," says Mr. Newman, "that he had no sense of the realities of the world in which he was compelled to live his bodily life." Accordingly, his hypochondria and misanthropy were "the wonder and distress of all who knew and loved him." Egotistical almost, if not to the point of mania, he seems never to have suspected the meaning of self-control, and his moods were frequent and childish. Only in his later years, when he had given up the objective world

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

JOHN J. TATTEN DIES

Democratic Committeeman Succumbs After He Is Taken to a Hospital.

John J. Tatten, 49 years old, of 1244 Dewey avenue, Justice of the Peace for the Sixth District, with offices at 1105 West Exchange, a member of the Democratic City Committee from the Fourth Ward, died at 5:10 a. m. today at the American Hospital, 2440 North Taylor avenue, to which he was taken by ambulance after he became seriously ill. He had been suffering from diabetes for two years.

An adherent of the late Justice "Jimmy" Miles, Tatten once created excitement at City Hall by his election to the Election Commissioners' offices when election returns displeased him. He was a plastering contractor when not in public office. When Miles died in September, 1924, Tatten succeeded him as Commissioner.

Making Many Books

By Ernest Newman (Knopf)

BEFORE the occasion of the recently celebrated centenary, Ernest Newman has deemed it necessary to write a book about the great composer. The facts about the man's private life do not greatly matter now that he has been dead for a hundred years, and that the composer's value to the world is judged only by examining his music.

Mr. Newman not only grants this; he insists upon it. Unfortunately, as he says in the introduction, the Beethoven legend that has been accepted generally, hopelessly confuses the alleged moral qualities of a fictitious Beethoven with the values of his music. The result is a book that is a masterpiece of the man, meanings have been found in his music that are not there. Obviously, as Mr. Newman contends, in order to appreciate the music for its intrinsic value it is necessary to examine the man's character by way of destroying the false basis for a false appraisal of the man's product.

"Beethoven became for the late nineteenth century," says Mr. Newman, "not a mere musician, the man whose work should be judged by the purely esthetic standards we would apply to that of any other composer, but a man with a message, a seer, an oracle whose prophetic inspiration on all occasions was blasphemy to doubt. His music was admitted not simply in terms of music, but as an achievement of morality."

It proves to be an unpleasant, even a nauseating, task that Mr. Newman has set for himself, that of revealing Beethoven, the man, as he was known in life. But it cannot be said by anyone who has read the book with care, that the author has been moved by the prevailing fashion for debasing the man by way of flattery. The inferiority of the many. It is because of his profound love for the man's music that he attacks the false conception of the man.

What we get from Mr. Newman's discussion of Beethoven's character is a moving picture of a man whose whole outward life was a mess. Beethoven was no philosopher, striving for some livable synthetic vision of an apparently dual world. As a thinker of any sort he seems to have been rather infantile. The subjective world was evidently, for him, far more vivid than the objective world. "The truth seems to be," says Mr. Newman, "that he had no sense of the realities of the world in which he was compelled to live. His bodily life, his bodily life, his hypochondria and misanthropy were 'the wonder and distress of all who knew and loved him.' Egotistical almost, if not more, to the point of mania, he seems never to have suspected the meaning of self-control, and his moods were frequent and childish. Only in his later years, when he had given up the objective world in despair, was there any lessening of his bitterness of soul; and he seems never to have achieved in his outward life that lofty calm legend is so generally attributed to great souls.

What we learn of his relations with his brothers, his dishonesty in matters of business, the apparently slight value he placed upon his plighted word, is such as to make one grieve. And finally we are told that his rabid attitude toward sex irregularities (which has been given a highly moral significance) was due to his suffering from a certain disease contracted in his youth, while his lifelong attitude toward women in general was hardly in keeping with the legend of moral grandeur that has grown up about his name. For all this, the author seems to have unquestionable authority.

If Mr. Newman had stopped here he would be no better than any of our sensational biographers who follow the fashion of the day; but upon the pitiful ruins of the false legend he builds the real Beethoven—the Beethoven of the inner world where all genuine creation occurs, the only Beethoven who bears any vital relation to the music he has left us.

It is the incorrigible myth-making faculty of mankind that, in every age, has made the recognition and understanding of genius difficult; for it is the legend, always built about a great creative personality, that the world at large honors, and not the intrinsic value of the thing achieved. The greatness of Homer, for instance, as generally and vaguely accepted by the world, can hardly be the greatness of the Homeric poems understood and loved. It is, for most people, whether learned or ignorant, merely the traditional greatness of the Homeric legend, transmitted chiefly by hearsay—a matter of social contagion.

Essentially the same psychological process is involved in modern advertising. A popular psychosis, concerned with the idea of great merit, is built up by artful repetition about a given trade name; and it is the resultant legend about the name that impresses, without reference to any independent judgment of quality. In the manufacture and distribution of that modern commodity which is known as literature, adroit publicity is the process by which the myth-making faculty is artificially stimulated in order that a brief-lived legend may glorify the latest wheeze and make it profitable.

Mr. Newman's book is a contribution to the difficult and highly important business of understanding genius and evaluating its product. His book will affect the myth-making faculty not at all. With the appearance of the next great creative artist the whole process will be repeated as always. Great work survives chiefly by virtue of its enshrining legend. Such legends may be regarded as popular works of art created by the collective consciousness. At worst, they may preserve, as being above criticism, much that does not deserve to survive. At best they can not compensate the loss of the precious things they displace.

Beware of Soot

The entire country is stirred up over the appalling smoke and soot question and experiments for relief are being tried in different cities.

On December 8, 1926, a St. Louis newspaper published an article headed:

SOOT SHOWN HIGH IN SULPHURIC ACID

It further stated that analysis of soot, made to show its poisonous constituents, has showed a content as high as 5.98 per cent of sulphuric acid.

The range in different cities is from 2.75 to 5.98.
The article also stated that "It is this element of smoke and soot which causes the corrosion of metal work and the destruction of interior decoration of buildings."
What about the health of the humans, who not only have to suffer breathing it outdoors, but who are obliged to inhale the particles that float around the inside of house and lodge on the Wall Paper, a menace to Prison for slayer of woman.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 21.—
Cash, former policeman in Colorado, must go to the Southern Illinois penitentiary for the killing of Mrs. Arch Woolard of Eldorado more than a year ago, according to a decision handed down by the Supreme Court, which held that while the record in the case was not free from error, it was insufficient to reverse the judgment of the Saline County Court, in which Cash was convicted of manslaughter.

Cash, thinking Mr. and Mrs.
Woolard were driving recklessly, fired at their automobile when it did not stop at his command.

CARGOES FOR CHINESE PORTS STILL ACCEPTED

Federal Commerce Agent Reports No Serious Curtailment of Trade.

China's import and export trade with the United States has been maintained despite the Civil War there, and Pacific steamship lines are accepting cargo for Chinese ports of call without war risk insurance, Thomas L. Gaukel, district manager of the St. Louis Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, said yesterday in speaking before a luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was believed at first that commercial transactions with China might be seriously disturbed by the war between the Cantonese and the Northern armies, Gaukel said, but there has been no serious curtailment of trade. Advice from Shanghai report an apparently sincere effort on the part of the moderate Nationalists, under Chiang Kai-Shek, to consider foreign business and to co-operate with Chinese banks, he said.

Port of Amoy Reopened.
The Port of Amoy, closed for several weeks, has now been reopened and shipments have been resumed. It is recommended by the Department of Commerce, Gaukel said, that both war risk and strike insurance be taken out on any freight moving into China interior. For port-of-call trade this is not necessary, he said.

Automobile and tobacco shipments have been held up by manufacturers, according to Gaukel, because of the new surtax imposed on all commodities by the Nationalists. This tax amounts to 2 1/2 per cent. above the usual "treaty" import tax, for example, 10 per cent. surtax on luxuries. Automobiles and tobacco would be rated luxuries.

Interior trading in China, particularly in the north is fraught with delays, owing to the imposition of military and district taxes, which have accumulated astonishingly, Gaukel said.

A 4-ton cargo moving between Peking and Kalgan, a distance of 120 miles, formerly cost $215 for freight, but now it costs $600. The cargo is held up, with the imposition of a new tax, until the tax has been paid, which causes some delay.

St. Louis Firms Holding Own.
Despite these things, trade has been maintained in the usual lines.
St. Louis firms, according to Gaukel, have been able to hold their own in this respect. Lighting fixtures, refrigerating machines, shoes and other commodities have been leaving St. Louis regularly for Chinese destinations. In every case, the firm shipping to China has consulted the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, Gaukel said, in addition to keeping in touch with their Chinese agents. If the procedure is followed, he declared, the manufacturer is assured of sound service.

In 1926, trade between China and the United States amounted to $229,000,000, having more than trebled since 1914, when it was but $64,000,000. The usual Chinese imports are silk, vegetable oils, bristles, matted and art objects. The American exports are of every type with automobiles, machinery and shoes figuring importantly.

LEAGUE COMMITTEE UNABLE TO AGREE ON ARMS TREATY

Demand of U. S. for Full Publicity in Armament Manufacture, Opposed by Italy.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)
GENEVA, April 21.—Demand of the U. S. that government armament factories, as well as private ones, be submitted to the fullest publicity, which has met uncompromising hostility from the Italians and Japanese, has shattered the League of Nations hope for formulating an international treaty to be a corollary to future arms traffic and disarmament treaties.

Following a two-day session by a conciliation subcommittee, headed by Count von Bernstorff of Germany and consisting of representatives of Belgium, Italy, Japan and the United States, differences developed to such a degree that
M. de Bruckere of Belgium will report to the League Council their inability to agree on a treaty, and the impossibility of controlling through publicity, either private or governmental armament manufacture.

Hugh S. Gibson, United States delegate to the preparatory commission for a disarmament conference, even refused to attend the sessions of the sub-commission, since the American stand is unalterable. It was pointed out that President Coolidge agreed to cooperate with the League's com-paign for supervision of private manufacture, conditioned upon full publicity on all forms of armament manufacture.

According to De Bruckere, his report will make clear that Italy's uncompromising attitude was chiefly responsible for the collapse.

WITHDRAWS NEW TRIAL PLEA AND IS GIVEN $500 DRY FINE

Attorney for Walter Gifford Tells Judge Prohibition Agent's Remark Did No Damage.

Anthony Canzoneri, attorney representing Walter Gifford, a farmer, residing near Pacific, Mo., who yesterday in Federal Court asked for a new trial for his client because of an alleged prejudicial remark made by a prohibition agent in the hearing of the jury, today withdrew his petition and Gifford was fined $500 by Federal Judge Faris.

The attorney had accused Carol Byrd, a prohibition agent, of calling Gifford a liar within the hearing of members of the jury in a Federal building elevator during the noon recess. Gifford, testifying in his own behalf, had said he did not know there were vats of mash on his farm.

This morning Canzoneri informed the court that 11 of the jurors, when questioned by the United States District Attorney's office, had said they either did not hear the alleged remark or it made no impression upon them.

The twelfth juror was placed on the stand this morning and questioned by Judge Faris. He made a similar statement.

Judge Faris then assessed Gifford the maximum punishment for a first offense.

France found the way... A Smooth Skin.

FRANCE developed this famous method of making fine toilet soap!

Skin so smooth and radiant, lovely arms and satiny shoulders, expressive hands white as gardenias at the opera in Paris, on the beach at Deauville, you see them everywhere in France! The country that draws women from every land looking for loveliness.

Beauty-wise France! So old, so wise in ways to loveliness. For years and years the whole world has looked to her for fine toilet soaps. The gift of a smooth skin—France knew her matchless powders and perfumes lose half their magic,

and more, if the skin itself is not smooth, exquisite. She developed her famous method for making fine toilet soap.

It is by this tried and treasured French method Lux Toilet Soap is made!

It is true savon de toilette, this white, fine-textured, subtly fragrant cake! Your delighted fingers recognize it. Such bubbling instant lather! How it caresses your skin, even in hard water, giving you that beneficent, satin-smooth feeling

you so adored costly imported soaps for!
Magic—ah! but you do feel more exquisite, more utterly charming, well-tended. Lux Toilet Soap tends your skin the true French way.

France with her passion for perfection and America with her genius for achievement, together they give you Lux Toilet Soap for just ten cents!

Wherever soap is sold you will find this new delicious soap for face, hands and bath. Made by the makers of Lux.

TWO MORE ADDED TO TORNADO DEATH LIST

Victims Injured in Illinois Storm Die—Relief Work Well in Hand.

A woman and a six weeks' old boy were added today to the death list of the tornado which swept rural communities of Central Illinois Tuesday afternoon, increasing the number of fatalities to 23. The total was fixed at 22 yesterday, but it was reduced by one today when it was learned that E. M. Piper of Athensville, Greene County, reported dead, was alive. Six or seven more deaths are possible among the 50 or more persons now in hospitals.

Miss Louise Walters, 44 years old, who formerly lived at 2852½ Victor street, St. Louis, died early today at St. John's Hospital, where she was taken yesterday with her sister and her brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Wilkinson, who were seriously injured when Wilkinson's brother, Edward Wilkinson, was killed, as the tornado hit his farmhouse near Hardin, Calhoun County.

Miss Walters had made her home with the Wilkinsons for several weeks and was standing on the porch when the tornado struck. They fled inside and the house collapsed over them.

Everett Eugene Hardy, 6-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hardy of Buffalo Hart, Sangamon County, died at Springfield, Ill. He was injured when his brother, Harold, 5, was killed. The mother and another son, Clarence, 3, are in critical condition.

Hampered by flood waters, augmented by heavy rainfall which accompanied the tornado through six counties Tuesday afternoon, relief parties found difficulty in reaching isolated districts, but today it was thought that all the injured and homeless had been provided for.

Red Cross workers from St. Louis went to Greene and Calhoun Counties reported that these counties were adequately handling the situation. In Sangamon County, the Springfield Chapter had the situation well in hand, and supplies had been shipped to Cornland and Buffalo Hart, Logan County hamlets, which were hard hit.

In Cornland, a village of 200, where three persons were killed and two-thirds of the homes and business buildings wrecked, State highway police and volunteers from other cities are actively engaged in clearing the wreckage and providing shelter for the homeless. Only relief workers are permitted to enter the town.

ELWELL'S SON CONTESTS WILL. Disinherited. He Says Grandmother Was Unduly Influenced.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 21.—Richard D. Elwell, son of Joseph B. Elwell, auction bridge expert, whose murder seven years ago is still unsolved, has filed objections to the will of his grandmother, Mrs. Jennie A. Elwell, who died Feb. 17. He charges that it was procured by fraud and undue influence on his grandmother by Magistrate Andrew Macrory, executor and residuary legatee, or by some other person or persons acting in concert with him.

Besides leaving Macrory her residuary estate of undetermined value, Mrs. Elwell willed him $20,000. Her two daughters, Miss Grace A. Elwell and Mrs. Katherine D. Kitchell of Hopewell, N. J., and a son, Walter Elwell of Hempstead, L. I., were left $30,000 each. The grandson got nothing.

TEACHER HELD FOR PEEPING. Purdue Senior Catches Faculty Man After Chase.
By the Associated Press.
LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 21.—Dr. E. Dean McClusky, director of the Purdue University department of educational reference, is held on $500 bond, charged with violating the State "Peeping Tom" act. The bond is returnable April 23.

Police said McClusky was caught by Fred M. Molt of Chicago, a senior, after a chase through backyards and side streets in West Lafayette. Molt said McClusky was peeping through a window while Molt was calling on a woman student. McClusky said he was looking for a number on a house where it had been reported to him that another girl student was smoking.

Texas Oil Royalty.
AUSTIN, Tex.—The University of Texas oil royalty fund now totals $3,865,661. About $150,000 more will be received soon. United States Liberty bonds are purchased with this money. The interest, amounting to $500,000 a year, can be spent by the university for building purposes, but the principal must remain untouched in the permanent fund, it has been held by the courts.

SMITH CENTER, Kan.—William R. Putnam, lineal descendant of Israel Putnam of Revolutionary War fame, lived the life of a recluse and died at the age of 88 years. FREE EYE CLINIC FORBIDDEN
BECAUSE DOCTORS OBJECT
Court Dismisses Restraining Order Which Would Have Prevented Official Interference.
The free eye clinic scheduled for yesterday and today at Hotel Statler in conjunction with the State convention of the Missouri Optometric Association was indefinitely postponed yesterday after Circuit Judge Hartmann dismissed a temporary restraining order which prohibited the clinic from interference by city officials.

Dr. A. P. Thursty Jr., chairman of the Arrangements Committee, had applied for a permit to the Board of Public Service April 15, as required by city ordinance, but was told the board meeting for the month had passed, and there would be no opportunity for the board to hear his application in time to present the clinic today.

Health Commissioner Starkloff and City Counselor Muench opposed the granting of a permanent restraining order. Dr. Starkloff said a number of St. Louis physicians were opposed to the clinic. At the headquarters of the Missouri Optometric Association convention today it was said that opponents of the clinic objected to its presence in the city.

H. T. ESTILL PLEADS GUILTY OF FORGERY IN KANSAS CITY
Man, Who Passed Worthless Checks in St. Louis Hotels, to be Sentenced Saturday.
H. T. Estill, alias A. R. Vandiver, the elderly "business man" who twiddled five St. Louis hotels out of $1100 with forged checks on and about April 7, has been arrested in Kansas City, police here were notified today.

He appeared in the space of a few weeks at the American, Jefferson, Coronado and Mayfair hotels and his method was usually the same. Coming down to the lobby in the morning he would get his mail at the clerk's desk and open a letter, which he probably had mailed to himself. The letter in each of the first four instances contained a check for $250 against the Hyofland Flour Mills Co. of Kansas City and ostensibly signed by officers of this firm.

The hotels cashed the checks and a fifth hotel here not named in the police report cashed one for $100. It was later learned that a hundred blank checks had been stolen from the Hyofland Flour Mills Co. and the signatures of officers forged. Estill was caught at Kansas City when he passed two more checks at banks.

He pleaded guilty of forgery at Kansas City yesterday and is to be sentenced Saturday. Kansas City police advised Chief of Detectives Kales that when authorities there got through with Estill he would be turned over to police here.

30 SIGNERS OF BAD BONDS

ORDERED HELD IN CHICAGO

Newly Organized Court Issues Warrants to Police to Serve on Professional Sureties.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Thirty professional bondsmen, said to have signed bonds totaling $500,000, on which it has been impossible to collect, are charged with perjury and conspiracy in warrants given to police for service. The warrants were signed by Judge Edgar A. Jones, recently placed in charge of the newly organized bond court. The worthless bonds have been signed within the past five years and have made possible the escape of numerous gangsters, gunmen and other criminals.

In some cases Judge Jones learned property involved has been transferred to dummy names and used several times on separate bonds. In others, the actual equity of the bondsmen has been found to be as little as 20 per cent.

BOY, 9, DIES WHEN GIVEN ANESTHETIC AT HOSPITAL

Frank Plut Succumbs When Doctors Prepare for Operation to Remove Tonsils.

Frank Plut, nine years old, a patient at the St. Louis Children's Hospital, died at 4:30 p. m. yesterday when physicians were administering an anesthetic preparatory to operating for the removal of his tonsils.

The boy was taken to the hospital last November suffering from a chronic heart disease. His guardian, Mrs. Mary Wheelhouse, of 4487 Botanical avenue, was kind and velvety as a baby in any kind of weather. This exquisitely textured cream is wonderful, too, for smoothing out tired signs that night, ridding wrinkles, plumping out hollows in my neck, and keeping my hands in splendid condition.

Wind and weather will lose their menace for you, too, once you feel the soothing, healing touch of Black and White Cold Cream, and see the marvelous way it keeps your skin from being rough, chapped or sunken under a bench. I. C. C. Examiner Urges 8 Cent Cut on 100 Pounds From Chicago to New York.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 21.—Livestock rates from Chicago to New York, now 55.5 cents for 100 pounds, should be reduced to 47.5 cents, the Interstate Commerce Commission was advised today by an examiner, and livestock rates from the West to New England and Atlantic seaboard points should be readjusted downward to fit the New York-Chicago charge.

At the same time the examiner said reduction in livestock rates could be made without altering the rates applying to meats and packing house products.

My! How white the clothes get

—since I found this new soap for my washer

I NEVER dreamed I could get clothes so white—with so little work.

This amazing granulated soap gives safe, creamy, sterilizing suds that loosen dirt and stains so they float off by themselves.

I don't need to touch a washboard. Even the most soiled cuffs and hems come snowy with a rub between the fingers. That saves the clothes, of course. And hands, too!

Rinso also saves fuel—fortifies without boiling. I find it very economical, for all I need on washday—no bar soaps, chips or powders.

Why don't you try it next washday?

Dr. A. C. Curi: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS
The modern girl is reverting to type!

Beneath all her lightness, flippancy, pep and assumed cynicism she is secretly HUNGRY for some of the genuine things of life—real happiness, real love and a few honest enthusiasms. She is tired of the role to which she has been elected.

She is sick of sex—and all the talk about sex!

She is weary of indiscriminate petting, maudlin kisses and Freudian chatter!

She is tired of being the object of men's idle amusement. She is tired of seeing the same look in every man's eye.

She may like her job and enjoy her freedom; but what she wants MOST down in her heart of hearts, is a HOME, with a kitchen and a pantry and an attic and a laundry and a lot of cupboards and closets, and the Right Man in it!

What she wants is a wedding-ring and some good, clean love!

What she wants is a chance to plan curtains, embroider guest-towels, sew on buttons, polish a rosewood piano, and dig around a flower garden.

A permanent name, a permanent abiding place, and a permanent life-partner!

She is sick of "wild times" and rowdy parties and the sort of "self-expression" that ends in self-contempt.

She would like a little CLEAN, DECENT FUN, that does not begin in a pocket-flask or a punch-bowl and end in a mauling party.

She would like a few interesting men friends, who could talk about something besides petting, golf, knees, money and gin.

She would like a little delicate, subtle and romantic love-making!

She is tired of the CUT-FLOWERS of love—sex-appeal, dalliance, kisses.

She would like to find that abiding affection, understanding and tenderness which are ITS ROOT!

She would like to meet a man with all the old-fashioned virtues, honor, chivalry and ambition; to whom she could look UP, and on whom she could lavish all the love that God put into every normal woman's heart!

The modern girl is HUNGRY for all the things that are every woman's by Divine Right. She doesn't know what is the matter with her. But she is reverting to type! For, after all, she is at heart "just a WOMAN"—and she has never been anything else!

Man was made of clay, and can be molded and changed. But woman was made from a BONE—and nothing will ever change her! (Copyright, 1937.)

Children's Bedtime Story

Longlegs Explains

Be not deceived by flickle fame;
There's very little in a name.

—Longlegs the Heron.

PETER RABBIT was beginning to feel quite well acquainted with Longlegs the Heron. When Longlegs had had good luck fishing he often was very good natured and ready to talk. Then it was that Peter learned much about Longlegs.

"You belong to a good-sized family, don't you?" asked Peter.

Longlegs nodded. "A fairly good-sized family," said he, "a fairly good-sized family. Of course, you know my cousin, Quack the Night Heron, and my still smaller cousin, Puke the Green Heron."

Peter nodded. "Of course I do," said he. "I knew them before ever I knew you. I suppose you are the largest of the family."

Longlegs nodded. "I suppose I am," said he.

"You know he's a Crane, the Blue Crane," interrupted Redwing the Blackbird, who had been listening.

Longlegs looked up quickly. "No such thing!" he snapped. "I'm not a Crane. I'm a Heron—as true a Heron as ever breathed."

What people call me a Crane for I don't understand. The idea of calling me a Crane!

Peter was thoughtfully scratching a long ear with a long hind-leg. "Is there any such person as a Crane?" he ventured to inquire.

"There certainly is," replied Longlegs, "but Cranes are of another family altogether. The Crane family may be a nice enough family, but I am proud of my own family and I don't like being called what I am not."

"Perhaps you'd like being called a Stork better," interrupted Redwing. "It seems to me I've heard you called a Stork."

"I don't doubt it," replied Longlegs bitterly. "It is queer to me how ignorant some people are. I am no more of a Stork than I am a Crane. Why I have actually known people to call me Sandy the Crane, meaning the Sandhill Crane; and there is a real true Sandhill Crane I don't know what those folks would call him if they should see Sandy. I'm a Heron, and there's all the difference in the world between Herons and Cranes and Storks. I suppose it is just because my legs are long. What's the good of a name, anyway, if you can't have it to yourself?"

"I suppose," said Peter, "that you spent the winter in the Sunny South."

"You belong to a good-sized family, don't you?" asked Peter.

"Well, if I hadn't, I wouldn't be here now," retorted Longlegs.

"How under the sun do you suppose I could have lived up here with the snow and ice. Certainly, I spent the winter in the Sunny South."

"There is one thing you ought to be thankful for, and that is that you are not hunted by Mr. and Mrs. Quack, the ducks. They have to worry all the time they are making that long journey twice a year, and I think it is dreadful," said Peter.

"Huh!" retorted Longlegs. "You seem to think I don't have anything to worry about. Mr. and Mrs. Quack, once they have reached their nesting grounds, are in peace and forget their worries. I can't. Do you see that gap in my wing? I've spread a long wing and, sure enough, several of the feathers were missing."

Peter nodded. "How did it happen?" he asked.

"Guns! Terrible guns!" replied Longlegs. "I lost those on my way up here, and during the summer I never knew when somebody was going to shoot at me. It makes me terribly nervous."

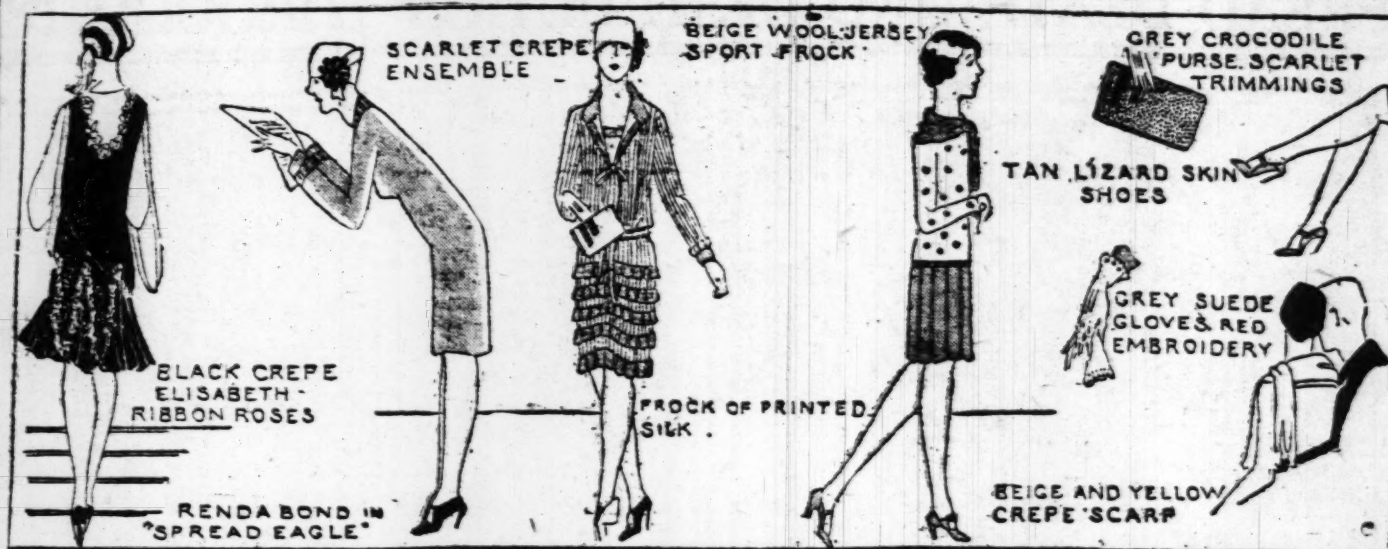

"Why do they shoot at you, Longlegs?" inquired Peter innocently.

"Boutonnieres and shoulder ornaments are made of colored glass, the stems and leaves of green glass and the blossoms and petals in their natural shades of glass."

Styles Seen on the Stage, and What the Ultra-Fashionable of New York Are Wearing

NEW YORK. As the curtain dropped on the final act of Pellets at Metropolitan, the Metropolitan, our eyes turned toward Seward Webb's box and the lovely lady occupying it. We were first attracted by the gorgeous diamond tiara which framed her features. Fitting closely on her head, it rose to a point at the center, accentuating the pointed design of gold and silver leaves embroidered on her gown of shimmering white satin.

Julia and Edna Brokaw, back from the Florida beaches, walked about Fifth-seventh street Monday and as usual were dressed exactly alike. They both were wearing coats of hunters green, beifed and buckled in front with narrow shawl collars of ombre lapin. Their hats of the same color were turned down in front and up behind. This is a most effective mode of dressing, particularly when the individual is tall and yet not so alike in coloring that a blue or a pink ribbon is necessary to distinguish between them.

PEANUT BUTTER A STAPLE FOOD

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU may have eaten peanut butter, in which event you either like it or dislike it. That is a matter of taste. It is important, however, that you should know that as now manufactured, it is a clean product of high nutritive value.

Peanut butter first came into use a little over 20 years ago as a food for invalids. Now it is recognized as a staple article of food.

It, like cow's butter, is rich in fats and in vitamin A, but in addition carries high values in both starches (carbohydrates) and protein. This combination makes it one of the most comprehensively valuable of all recent additions to our food resources.

Peanut butter contains only the ground kernels of roasted, balanced peanuts, with the addition of one to four per cent of salt. The high grade peanut retains its sweetness and flavor many months in a tight package. Large quantities are used in the manufacture of sandwiches, candy and bakery products, but its chief use is probably in the home.

I have frequently tried to make you acquainted with processes by which your reliable foodstuffs and beverages, like carbonated water, are produced. My object has been to put you in position intelligently to inquire into and demand information of manufacturers for the protection of your health.

Your Department of Agriculture at Washington has fortunately placed us in possession of this information with respect to peanut butter.

To obtain a smooth, fine-flavored peanut butter, a blend of the Spanish and Virginia types is employed. Virginia peanuts alone make a butter that is too dry, and a butter made from Spanish alone is too oily. There is no uniformity in the preparations used of the two varieties, as some manufacturers prefer an oily butter and others prefer a dry butter.

Care is taken that peanuts which are used in the manufacture of peanut butter are first cleaned of foreign matter, are then placed in the split blancher, where the seed germs and thin skins are removed. The two varieties of peanuts are mixed in the desired

Julia Hoyt drives her blue green car over the cobblestones. Beckman place and only a glimpse of her profile shows between the gray fox collar of her coat and her little gray felt turban, but her police dog is perched on the seat above her and thoroughly enjoys the ride, cobblestones or no cobblestones. No smarter accessory can accompany sport attire than a police dog, even in the city, as we realized when we saw this same dog strolling sedately down Fifth avenue one day with Miss Hoyt.

Taking our daily constitutional through the park, we met Mrs. E. M. McKivkar exercising her airedale puppy, Ruggles. Mrs. McKivkar's costume of navy blue kasha and foudal was quite as gay and charming as the spring morning. She told us it was a Vionnet model and flung back her coat to show us the blue and white floured frock trimmed with box pleated ruffles. Her felt hat is the color of her suit and is caught by a small gold buckle where it turns up sharply in front. A third item of rose beige in her costume is the sweater, which is the smartest complement for a tailored suit this season. Alligator oxford, nude hose and a brown bag are the accessories.

proportion before being fed into the hopper of the mill for grinding or crushing into butter. The salting is important. An automatic salt feeder allows a definite proportion of salt to be fed into the mill along with the peanuts. Sandwiches made of crackers with peanut butter filling are usually filled directly from the discharge spout of the crushing mill. Made in this way, peanut butter is used as a filler in several kinds of candy. One popular style has

WE find that hat ornaments of precious stones have quite replaced the huge brooches of this past season. One of the loveliest we have seen gleamed on the beige felt hat worn by Mrs. Hubert Van Ness. It was a marvelous piece of carved apple green jade mounted in platinum and diamonds and edged by black onyx.

LUNCHING with friends at Sherer's on Tuesday, Mrs. James M. Connell, the former Daphne Kane, is lovely in a covert, cloth suit of an intriguing shade of rose beige. With her blue eyes and chestnut hair she is certainly wearing most successfully a color usually allotted to brunettes, which is the color of her suit and is caught by a small gold buckle where it turns up sharply in front. A third item of rose beige in her costume is the sweater, which is the smartest complement for a tailored suit this season. Alligator oxford, nude hose and a brown bag are the accessories.

Long, straw-shaped candies with peanut butter centers are featured, especially for children. DEGRADE bands of blue formed the effective frock which was worn by Mrs. Ashbel Green, a bride of the winter, at a tea she gave recently. Cut on straight lines, the distinction of the dress came from the combining of the various shades of blue, the lightest shade being at the neckline and the darkest shade at the hem. Mrs. Alda, who is never eclipsed, even when sitting in a low chair and with people around her, was in a filmy beige. We will admit, though, we did miss the details of her frock.

Waiting for the curtain to rise on "Her Cardboard Lover" last week, we caught a glimpse of the smiling countenance of Tommy Meighan as he escorted Julia Ring down the aisle and, following close behind the m. Harriet Camac, clad in white and gold. The hem of her gown was edged with gold lace which merged into a pattern of gold embroidery reaching to the waist.

titled development of the industry, our daily butter is now free from those variations in quality, including contaminations and adulterations, to which it was subjected when it was more exclusively the product of unhygienic and often dirty homes. An established brand of butter now means something to you and your neighbors. And so it is with peanut butter. This is a newer but exceedingly valuable addition to your food resources. For its Body-building Elements...

Child Specialists

now advise this delicious food

WHAT a joy it is to see a child growing sturdily! The firm flesh, the straight legs and erect little body, the glowing color and joyousness that spell health.

Mothers and doctors are eager to give a child the food which supplies his body with the building materials it needs.

Calcium is the element which his diet must supply to make strong, straight bones. Vitamin A is essential for sturdy growth.

And one food—"Philadelphia" Cream Cheese has come to be appreciated as a valuable source of both these elements.

Mothers welcome this food for its nutritive value, its deliciousness and its reliability. Always pasteurized, it is made with scrupulous care by the Phenix Cheese Corporation.

Give it—

As a spread for bread at meals, between meals and for the school lunch.

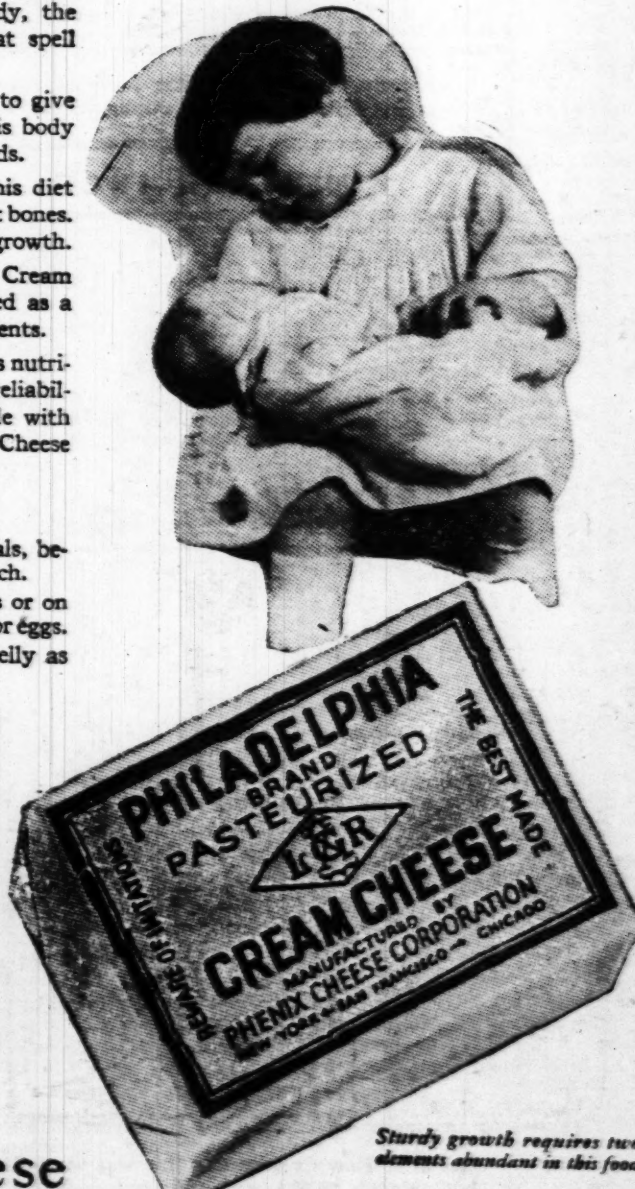

At the noon meal on crackers or on stewed fruit, as a change from meat or eggs.

In sandwiches with jam or jelly as a dessert.

A world famous nutrition expert says:

"Too often a child's diet is deficient in the Calcium needed to build straight legs and a sturdy frame, and in Vitamin A essential for healthy growth. Both these elements are abundantly present in 'Philadelphia' Cream Cheese, an important food for children."

Pointers on Auction Bridge

By MILTON C. WORK

THE pointer for today is: The Queen should be played from Queen-x in Dummy when closed hand has Ace-x or Ace-x-x. When a small card is led against a No-Trump contract and Dummy has Queen and one small, Closed Hand Ace and one Ace and two small, the card next to the Ace in the Closed Hand not being higher than the Nine, the Queen should be played from Dummy. The lead is more apt than not to have been from the King and when so, two tricks can be made by playing the Queen. When the lead is not from the King, there is little chance that Dummy's Queen can be made, as probably Third Hand has either the Jack or Ten in addition to the King; and if the small card should be played from Dummy, Third Hand would finesse. Whether Closed Hand has Ace and one small or Ace and two small does not affect the situation; the Queen should be played from Dummy in either case. In all of the above we have been supposing that Closed Hand's Ace was supported by nothing higher than a Nine. If, however, Closed Hand, in addition to the Ace, has another honor, the situation would be materially varied. Suppose, for example, the hands should be as follows:

North
S. Q-4
H. S-5-5-2
D. K-Q-5-2
C. K-3-3

South
S. J-9-7-5-2
H. 10-4
D. J-7
C. 10-8-7-2

South (the Dealer) would bid one No Trump, and that bid would obtain the contract. West's opening lead would be the Five of Spades. How should the hand be played? Answer tomorrow.

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

Enjoy the luxury,
the comfort of wavy hair

It is not alone the Circuline waving machine in your hairdresser's parlor that permanently waves your hair. What actually set it into beautiful flowing waves are the Circulines themselves. It is these Circulines that make possible treating your hair according to its individual requirements, assuring you of a wave as tight or as loose as you yourself prefer.

You will recognize these Circulines, as pictured here. Each is individually wrapped, with the name "Nestle Circuline" stamped on the glassine wrapper. Only when you see them, when your hairdresser uses them, are you sure of a Nestle Circuline Wave.

Substitute formulas haphazardly concocted contain lye, ammonia, potash—dangerous to the hair. Avoid them!

THE WOMAN

BY MARGUERITE MOORE

Woman's Place is in the Office!
THAT low, derisive laughter, which you heard sweeping over town is not the spicker of Spring, as she watches the world shiver. Nor even the caustic tongue of the croak. It is the laughter of the Legislature killed—its mirth sprung from a yet more mocking event—

The spring drive against the girl stenographer at which she's laughing her head off.

And why not? Did you hear how the campaign started—

And how it finished? The West Side Y. M. C. A. announced that it had discovered a long-felt want—

The desire of the business man for stenographers MALE!

The Y. M. C. A., according to Fred Bergman, a "Y" authority, "is tired of flappers, 'tired of short dresses and silk stockings, 'tired of seeing girls rush from positions to get married."

When we had read so far, we decided That a man cooped up all day in a "Y" employment bureau—

Can't get around much—Is no office with which we are familiar

Has any man been overcome by fatigue Because of the office flappers, short dresses, silk stockings—

Although men downtown are still suffering from the epidemic of eye-strain

Which came in with short skirts, several years ago. However, "Y" authorities had the courage of their convictions

And sent out a Macedonian cry for stenographers in trousers. What happened thereafter is a sad story, mates.

Of 51 male stenographers examined, Sixty-nine could neither spell nor punctuate—

And 29 were not even neat! P. S. They did not get the job! For is there a girl downtown Who is not clean and tidy.

And who does not follow the advice of Polonius—

"Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy" Truly, as Miss Helen Winne of the Y. W. C. A. says,

"Give up the general atmosphere of a business house—For this, in no small measure, you may thank

The bobbed hair, tasteful dress, cosmetics of the modern business girl."

Seriously, if there is one woman worker who has made a real success

It is the young woman in the business office.

How could the place function without her?

There is, of course, the occasional feminine stenog who to spell, who doesn't know how to spell, who is indolent, insolent, unreliable.

But, for one of her, there are thousands of independent, level-headed, attractive young women who patiently attend to the innumerable petty details of business.

Who tactfully correct the grammar of their employer's dictation.

Who shrewdly stall his unwelcome visitors.

Who lie for him over the telephone, who listen patiently to all his stories of his golf and his greatest

THE WOMAN OF IT

BY MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Woman's Place Is in the Office!

THAT low, derisive laughter you've heard sweeping over town is not the spicker of Spring, as she watches the world shiver, Nor even the cackling of the crows, as they consider the Bismarck laws which the New York Legislature killed—its mirth sprung from a yet more mocking event.
The spring drive against the girl stenographer,
at which she's laughing her head

And why not?

And how it finished?

However, "Y" authorities had the courage of their convictions
And sent out a Macedonian cry for

The Diary of a New Father

Wednesday night.

MY NEW suit was delivered today and when I came home tonight Joan had it draped over a chair in the living room and she was out in the kitchen scrubbing some toes. I had been scrambling over on my hands and knees, and I put away my hat and coat and I looked at my new suit, and I had not noticed it was so good when I bought it, on account of the lights in the store. I guess, and I thought, if Joan did not like my shoes and hat, here is where she tells me some more about the kind of clothes I buy, all right, and I thought, if Joan did not like myself, now that I see it again.

Well, I went out to the kitchen and I kissed Joan and I said, "How are you honey?" and she said, "All right," and I thought, she will be jumping on me in a minute if I am not careful, and I said, "Did you get any mail today dear?" and she said, "Not a thing," and I thought,
"Wonder if I could tell her the news about the wrong suit. I said, 'How do you like my new suit?'" and she said, "Just fine. He is playing in his bed. Go in and see him," so I lived in to see him, and I in the living room I looked at my new suit again, and I thought, and I thought every time I see it, and I was beginning to think maybe they had sent out the wrong suit after all, and I thought, when Joan saw the suit and then I will remember the suit and then I will see a fine, big bawling out for buying one like that.

Well, I went into the bedroom to play with the baby, and he was fast asleep and he grunted and shook his little arms, and I said,
"I am sorry I am not feeling more playful, old timer, but as soon as your mother remembers that suit she is going to do a lot of talking," and I thought, well I suppose I can

Puppet Shows Are Newest Activity of St. Louis Junior League Members

By MARGUERITE MARTIN.

A STOCK company of puppeteers with a repertoire of three plays and actors for three separate casts, all well drilled and letter perfect in their lines, is now open to engagements in St. Louis. The impresarios are the Junior League;
the manager and producer, Mrs.
Archie Lee; the press agent, Elizabeth Gordon.

The acting is done by quaint little images whose heads are molded
of papier mache in the likeness of characters they represent and whose very active bodies underneath their clothes are the hands
of the manipulators behind the scenes. The lively necks upon which the heads are made to turn
and bow and assume most expressive attitudes are really the forefingers
of the manipulators. The arms
with their many significant gestures are supplied by the thumb
and middle finger of the manipulator thrust into the sleeves of the puppet's garments.

Voices ranging the lines of each
role as well as the motive power animating each figure are supplied by members of the Junior League,
some of them doubling in two or more roles.

The puppeteers cater especially
to audiences of children. So great
has been the demand for their entertainment that two performances
a week have been given since Jan.
23 when the show was first given.

Some children have attended the performances held at the Junior League club rooms once a month,
for which an admission of 25 cents
is charged; some have had engagements of their own, and some
play to come to their homes to entertain guests at private parties.

Still other groups of children have merely sent word to the puppeteers
that they wanted to see them act
and the company has come bringing stage, actors and properties to the school or hospital or institution where the request has come and entertained the children just
for the asking.

Indeed, so busy has the company been kept responding to these calls for their services that they've scarcely had time to increase their equipment and repertoire. Some improvement, over the original masks of the actors had to be adopted since they were potatoes which sprouted. Otherwise it is the same simple type of marionette and stage patter after the old Punch and Judy show, which has amused children and their elders, too, sometimes, since time immemorial.

The stage is a brown stained wooden screen standing seven feet high with a gilded proscenium arch, a velvet drop curtain and scenery worked like roller shades, the whole thing portable. The manipulators sit with their backs to the screen holding and putting the puppets through their roles up overhead.

The scenery has been painted by artists from among the league members and the figures of the puppets have been designed and constructed made by members of the organization or under their direction by pupils in the occupational therapy classes conducted as one of the enterprises of the league. The little plays also have been adapted to the puppet stage by members of the company. The repertoire at present includes Jack,
the Giant Killer, the Three Wishes and Punch and Judy.

The ultimate purpose of the puppet shows is to make money for the support of numerous charity activities of the Junior League.
An excellent beginning has been made, the shows having already more than paid their costs and providing funds for more ambitious attempts next season. Members of the company who have roles in one or more of the acts are Miss Margaret Runney, Miss Elizabeth Tupper, Miss Elizabeth Allen, Mrs.
Morgan Colt Day, Miss Celeste
Terry, Miss Olive Moffitt, Miss Mary Howell Betts, Miss Elizabeth
Robert and Miss Laura Layman.

PARTIES FOR CHILDREN

By Wanda Barton

PARTIES fall naturally into three classes. Those where the children are seated at table for refreshments, those where a buffet service is given and the still simpler sort where the good things are passed on trays. A dozen children may be served easily with tray service, 18 at a buffet affair with home cooking from 12 to 35 at a seated meal served at one large and several small tables. The seated meal takes the place of the home supper for the children, or dinner as the case may be. Invitations reading "four to seven" make this sort of meal most imperative.
The following menus are by way of suggestion:

For tray service, a choice of dainty sandwiches with cocoa may be served, followed by the cake and ice cream. The minced chicken or ham sandwiches, or those of cream cheese and jelly are generally liked.
Frozen custard may be made at home and served with the cake if liked.

An attractive party at this season is a "Domino Party." Invitations written on a big paper domino, the children are asked to come in colored cambric dominoes, and at the door two baskets the children draw colored paper dominoes, the matching ones deciding partners for the games. The games include, besides a first game of dominoes, popular table games, ring toss, coffee pot and other guessing games. All these games are popular up to 12 years, or even for older children.

The domino march brings the children in an orderly fashion to the table. They may cast off the dominoes at a given point on the way. Foods may be domino shape,
"None of the spring investments are more risky than matrimonial bonds."

The acting is done by quaint little images whose heads are molded
of papier mache in the likeness of
characters they represent and whose
very active bodies underneath their clothes are the hands
of the manipulators behind the scenes. The lively necks upon which the heads are made to turn
and bow and assume most expressive attitudes are really the forefingers
of the manipulators. The arms
with their many significant gestures are supplied by the thumb
and middle finger of the manipu-
lator thrust into the sleeves of the puppet's garments.

Voices ranging the lines of each
role as well as the motive power animating each figure are supplied by members of the Junior League,
some of them doubling in two or
more roles.

The puppeteers cater especially
to audiences of children. So great
has been the demand for their entertainment that two performances
a week have been given since Jan.
23 when the show was first given.

Some children have attended the
performances held at the Junior League club rooms once a month,
for which an admission of 25 cents
is charged; some have had engagements of their own, and some
play to come to their homes to entertain guests at private parties.

Still other groups of children have
merely sent word to the puppeteers
that they wanted to see them act
and the company has come bringing stage, actors and properties to
the school or hospital or institution where the request has come
and entertained the children just
for the asking.

A NEW STORY OF LOVE, ADVENTURE AND MYSTERY

SYNOPSIS

Granville Boyd, owner and navigator of the yacht Rigel, anchored in the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda, is about to start on a scientific expedition around the world. He is accompanied by his sister, Carillon, and a party of scientists. Carillon meets Bengal Dodd, who has brought his yacht Gunga to Bermuda on her maiden cruise, and she asks Dodd to tag along with the Rigel. Obtaining Boyd's consent, Dodd takes Jim Hamilton and his daughter, Gertrude, to accompany them. As they are about to leave, a widow at one of the Hamilton hotels loses her jewels and Carillon is suspected of the theft. Bengal Dodd is a former District Attorney of New York and he decides to do everything in his power to help Carillon clear herself of the suspicion. He sneaks Mrs. Ransome's maid, Irma, who formerly worked for Carillon. While Boyd and Dodd are in Hamilton working on a crew, Mrs. Ransome, accompanied by Irma, comes aboard the Rigel and assures Carillon that she is certain of her innocence and tells her she is free to leave on the Rigel whenever she pleases. The two boats start off agreeing to meet at Port au Prince.

On the seventh day north and on boarding her finds that she has been abandoned. Following a clue found on the chart, he takes the Rigel and, accompanied by Gertrude, makes for Verde Cay, an uninhabited island. Rowland agrees to navigate the Gunga to Ragged Island and wait there for the Rigel. Bengal is sure Boyd and his guests have been the victims of pirates.

Bengal goes ashore at Verde Cay after instructing Gertrude to take the Rigel to Ragged Island and bring back help. He encounters one of Carillon's captives, whom he kills, and also Carillon's former maid, Irma. He changes clothes with the dead bandit and finds a pocket full of gems.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

DOUBT

In a fury of doubt and dread Bengal began feverishly to overhaul the pieces of magnificent jewelry. Yes, here was "E. R."—a birthday, perhaps, or wedding anniversary. And here was a locket, a heart with a ruby core engraved upon the back. "H. R." and underneath "E. R." and in smaller letters the written words, "Unto Death Us Do Part."

Bengal leaned back against the rock, sick, giddy, dazed. The truth had flashed into his dazed brain on the tiny barbed points of colored light darting from those accursed gems. They were not Carillon's. They were the property of Mrs. Ella Ransome. And that meant they were being held by the pirates who had been selected by these jewel brigands, who knew of their presence on Granville Boyd's yacht.

Waves of despair swept over Bengal. Their passage stirred the depths of that chasm of despair into which he had sunk.

He no longer felt a nausea of disgust for the corpse beside him, the gory coat in his hands. He was past bothering with such petty details as these.

So Carillon was after all the thief. She had lied to him, lied to her brother, managed to hypnotize even her silly victim into the acknowledgment of a theft that never had been established. The insane passion for such gems as these had so disordered her conscience, pride, sense of decency, that she was impervious to their appeal. She had managed in some clever way to steal Mrs. Ransome's jewels, perhaps even before going into the boudoir to inspect that lady's jewels. And she had brought them aboard the yacht, with this dire result. Carillon had been the guilty one from the start. And Irma knew it.

Which really was the worst of the two? Bengal asked himself. Aully, Irma, born in poverty, perhaps in vice in some wretched stew, with the gift of brains and beauty and ambition to better her condition as best she might, or Carillon, born to luxury and the best of associations, pampered, petted, sheltered, loved. Irma was an opportunist, a sort of sly and clever human animal, like the vixen to which Bengal had so recently compared her. But Carillon was perverse, decadent, a wilful, selfish creature who had many times sacrificed her brother, her suitors, fiancés to her insane self-indulgence. She had sacrificed Bengal, made of him her dupe, and still was making such of him.

"Yes," he muttered heavily, "and so help me she still may." He rose, made the transfer of consciousness with no further shrinking, scrubbed the drying stains with a handful of burning moss. He pocketed the jewels, picked up the Panama hat that he had taken the precaution to carry there and put it on his head. Finding it too tight he tore out the band and split the straw.

Then, rolling his white clothes into a bundle, he shoved them into a crevice of the rock, picked up his rifle and pushed his way through the bush to find an easier place of ascent. He went about all this indifferently, carelessly, like a man returning from a stalk of the stag on his ancestral moors. All precautions were flung aside and he made for the open where the going was easiest. His face showed no sign of any great stress. It looked merely over-tired.

And yet it is probable that at that moment there was no man so desperate, no man so dangerous under north latitude 23 as Bengal Dodd.

Coming presently to the spot where he had slain Tony, Bengal noticed with indifference that the stains of a life's ebb tide were black, unnoticeable, like a patch of carbon in the rock. The hard wind was lightning, and its flares brought down to him the burbling of a well muffled motor. Perhaps sponging was not the entire business of that craft. White puffs were welling from her exhaust. She was getting ready to go out to save the cruiser. Well, let her. Let them make their getaway, or try to. Bengal doubted that they would get very far. Not in the Bahamas, or Haiti or Cuba, or the coast of Florida. Not in this day and age of broadcasted information.

Then, with a mind that was scarcely functioning at all, the truth was borne in upon him. This craft would be no sponger, but a vessel left there and aboard which the thieves had planned to "ransom" ship. Bengal wondered why he had not thought of that before. His first consideration should have been that pirates operating in these betwixted waters would change their names of transportation as soon as possible after the commission of the crime. This would explain their having called at Verde Cay, though it did not entirely explain why they should have wished to land, instead of running alongside the sloop.

But one thing was fairly certain, that they would not wish to leave without the fruits of their piracy. These now on Bengal's person. It struck him then that as they had no knowledge of his presence on the cay nor of the fate that had caught up their chief, the prolonged absence of Tony and of Irma could be accounted for in only one way, that they must have taken a party from the Rigel.

Another most evident fact was that the pockets of the coat now worn by Bengal were anything but a safe deposit under the circumstances, and that the sooner he made a cache of them the better. There was a deep fissure in the rocks over to his right a score of feet, so Bengal slipped down into this, found a suitable crevice in which to hide the gems and quickly stowed them away, carefully noting the salients that would serve as a guide to the hiding place. Then passing out under cover of the rocky spine he made a detour round the northern end of it and any life at all. He strode up to the awning and looked under it, and as he did so his ears caught a faint articulated sound that seemed to empty his heart of blood. It was not precisely sobbing, but more like the stifled whimpering of a child who has been severely punished, whipped, and warned that if it does not keep still it will be whipped again, more severely still.

Under the awning were only a few articles brought ashore from the cruiser, a mattress, some blankets, a large fitted valise of English make and a packing box of tinners, a box of pilot biscuits and a boat's water breaker. But hanging from the bushes on the fringe of which the awning had been rigged were some articles of a feminine wardrobe, dainty lingerie, a richly embroidered silk kimono, satin slippers with red high heels. This awning would be the sanctum sanctorum of Mademoiselle Irma. Bengal immediately perceived, and as there was but a single long leather covered locker mattress it was most likely that she occupied it alone, relegating her former mistress to the bush, there to shelter as best she might.

She was crouching there now, Bengal next discovered the source of the pitiful whimpering that had caught his ear. In the sudden gust of rage and infinite compassion that swept over him he did not bother to go round the awning, or under it. With a vicious jerk he tore it from its fastenings and trampled it underfoot, kicking the folds of it aside. And at this sign of temper the whimpering rose suddenly to a wall of terror, a sort of hopeless agonizing but quickly stifled scream.

"Carillon!" Bengal called, chokingly. "Don't be frightened, dear. It's I—Bengal!" and he strode over to where she was huddled in the little nest she had made.

Sleep a Factor in Beauty

By Lucrezia Bori

IN taking care of the complexion, a woman should remember that sleep has more to do with wrinkles than any other factor. One sleepless night will put as many wrinkles in the face as a month's constant massaging can eradicate.

To insure a smooth complexion, see that you have plenty of sleep. And see that you sleep properly. To sleep correctly, one should never prop half up in bed on hard, firm pillows. A small, soft pillow that merely elevates the head to the shoulder level is quite sufficient. Never sleep flat on the back with the head turned clear over to the side. If you sleep without a pillow, try to keep the head straight also. Place your arms so that they do not cramp your lungs when you sleep. The right side is the most comfortable for most people, with the left arm braced against the hip, not drooping across the stomach or chest. In this way you allow the lungs full expansion as you sleep. And be sure to keep all the windows in the bedroom wide open for fresh air is essential to health.

If you suffer with insomnia, try not to allow the eyes to close while lying in bed. It is the hardest thing in the world to lie in the dark with the eyes open. The very effort of keeping the eyes open will make you sleepy. When the eyes are closed, and the eyes themselves are not relaxed in sleep, the strain pulls the face muscles up, and causes wrinkles about the eyes. If you will close your eyes while you read this, you will understand what I mean. You will find that in closing the eyes you are squinting them, as you do when struck by sudden sunlight. That is what you are unconsciously doing at night when you lie tossing and rolling, wide awake, in your bed.

If you find it absolutely impossible to lie in the dark with your eyes open, I think it is better to turn the light on and read until sleep can no longer be forestalled, then to tire the face muscles with trying to force sleep to come.

19 DROWNED WHEN LAUNCH IS UPSET BY LEEVE BREAK

Government Boat Pelican, Swamped at Knowlton's Landing, Ark., 120 Miles South of Memphis.

REFUGEES ABOARD SWEEPED TO DEATH

Fourteen White Persons and Five Negroes Lose Their Lives in Flood Accident.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 22.—Confirmation of the loss of the Government launch Pelican at Knowlton's Landing, Ark., with 19 persons, was received here today by Army engineers.

The Pelican, carrying refugees, was caught in the breaking of the main levee at the landing. Fourteen of those drowned were white men and five were Negroes.

Knowlton's Landing is on the Mississippi River, 120 miles south of Memphis.

Three of those drowned were members of the crew—Henry Owen, Will E. Morris and Henry Cooper. The other white men who perished were George Wooten, John White, Raymond Barilison, Charles Crake, William Perry, George Douglas, Joseph Hicks, John Pentecost, George Pentecost, Hall Mark and Joseph Holmes.

Early reports said that Don H. Farmer and James H. Hocking, engineer and pilot, had been drowned. These two men were not on the boat. Oscar Clemens and Julius Elder were listed by the engineers as the only survivors.

The boat was said to have been caught in the swirl of water outside the break as it was attempting to deliver refugees from the bank to the steamer Wabash, which was passing up the river.

Three Persons Reported Drowned When Clarendon, Ark., Levee Broke by the Associated Press.
